AVIATION SECTOR MAY WITNESS LOSS OF ₹26K CR, SAYS REPORT

The Indian aviation industry is expected to report a net loss of around ₹26,000 crore, while its debt level may increase to ₹1.2 lakh crore in the ongoing fiscal year, credit ratings agency ICRA said on Tuesday. However, the industry is expected to witness a strong year-on-year growth of 45-50 per cent in domestic air passenger traffic, and 80-85 per cent in international air passenger traffic during 2021-22, according to the agency | P15

Three more medals for India at Paralympics

Mariyappan Thangavelu, Sharad Kumar (both in high jump) and Singhraj Adana (shooting) added to the country's medal rush at the ongoing Paralympics on Monday

SILVER FOR MARIYAPPAN

Five years after winning gold in Rio de Janeiro, TN jumper won silver in the T63 discipline. His jump of 1.86m was a season's best. Hailing from a village near Salem, the 26-year-old has had to battle past obstacles in his quest for glory. In fact, he had to train in isolation upon reaching Tokyo after he was deemed a close contact of somebody who contracted Covid-19. His mother, Saroja, was a bricklayer and stone carrier before she became a fruit and vegetable vendor. Sharad won a bronze in the same event

ADANA'S RECIPE FOR SUCCESS

When the Paralympics was postponed, the man from Bahadurgarh, Haryana, built a shooting range at home. The 10m air pistol athlete didn't want to lose out on precious days to lockdown so he brought the range home. Even if his family disapproved of the plan because of the associated costs, Adana, afflicted with polio, stuck to his guns. A year later, his belief has been vindicated with a bronze medal in the 10m air pistol SH1 event with a total score of 216.8 P17

I could have won gold and claimed the world record (1.96m). I came here with that aim. But the rain played spoilsport. It was a drizzle initially but after the 1.80m mark, it became heavy. The sock on my other leg (the impaired right leg) got wet and it was difficult to jump," said the athlete who suffered permanent disability in his right leg after it was crushed under a bus when he was only five.

Cauvery authority puts off Mekedatu discussion

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CONTINUING its efforts to implement the Mekedatu project, the Karnataka government on Tuesday insisted that the Cauvery Water Management Authority take it up for discussion which would clear Tamil Nadu's apprehensions over this drinking water project. The issue is likely to come up for discussion during the next meeting of the Authority in September.

Sources said that the project was on the agenda for discussion during the Authority's meeting in New Delhi on Tuesday. "But it was deferred after objections from Tamil Nadu. It will most likely be taken up for discussion at the next meeting," said sources in the government. The State had prepared to clear Tamil Nadu's apprehensions, they added.

Q1 GDP grows at record 20% on low base, recovery yet to reach its pre-Covid levels

ANURADHA SHUKLA @New Delhi

THE economy has improved but is yet to fully recover from the pandemic shock, government data released on Tuesday showed. Despite a record growth of 20.1% in the first quarter of 2021-2022, the economy is 9% short of the pre-Covid levels. Economists expect the economy to do better in the second half in view of India's core sector bouncing back to pre-Covid levels, growing at 9.4% in July.

In value terms, the GDP stood at ₹32,38,020 crore in April-June 2021-22, lower than ₹35,66,708 crore in the same period in 2019-20. In the first quarter of 2020-21, the GDP had shrunk to ₹26,95,421 crore, contracting 24.4%, when the first wave of Covid forced the government to impose nationwide lockdown.

While the numbers show the economic impact of the first Covid wave was more severe than the second, the slow pace of private consumption and capital formation indicates that the economy is still not out of the woods. Compared to Q1 FY20, private consumption slipped 12% in Q1 FY22, while private capital formation was down 18%.

While the government's final consumption expenditure was higher than the pre-Covid period, it contracted 5% compared to last year, as the Centre turned more prudent in spending money.

Economists say poor consumption and private capital formation indicates the economy has not yet recovered and the performance of these two parameters will decide the pace of growth in the coming quarters. CONTINUED ON: P15

Happens at Indian embassy in Doha on militia's request with Sher Mohd Abbas Stanekzai

First open talks with Taliban

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

INDIA on Tuesday held its first officially acknowledged talks with a senior Taliban leader when its envoy to Qatar Deepak Mittal met Sher Mohammad Abbas Stanekzai. That the meeting happened on Taliban's request at the Indian embassy in Doha gave it additional heft.

"Today, Ambassador of India to Qatar, Deepak Mittal, met Sher Mohammad Abbas Stanekzai, the Head of Taliban's Political Office in Doha. The meeting took place at the Embassy of India, Doha, on the request of the Taliban side," a statement from the ministry of external affairs said.

Over the past two days, the Taliban have been making friendly statements with its political leadership in Qatar calling India an important country and Stanekzai saying they want to continue bilateral trade.

Stanekzai, an Indian Military Academy alumnus, had made a similar statement in his capacity as deputy foreign minister between 1996 and 2001. India had been vocally opposed to the Taliban and had supported the Northern Alliance along with Russia and Iran at that point in time.

"Ambassador Mittal raised India's concern that Afghanistan's soil should not be used for anti-Indian activities and terrorism in any manner," the statement said and added that India was assured that the issues discussed in the meeting would be positively addressed. Tuesday's talks focused on safety, security and early return of Indian nationals stranded in Afghanistan.

In Delhi, Prime Minister Narendra Modi has formed a high-level group comprising External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval and senior officials to focus on the immediate priorities in Afghanistan. The grouping has been holding meetings regularly over the past few days.

The Eagle has flown. Taliban take control of Kabul airport

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE Taliban took over the Hamid Karzai International Airport on Tuesday, hours after the final US evacuation plane flew out of Kabul. Elsewhere in Kabul, the militia's gunmen fired into the air to celebrate Afghanistan's 'independence'.

Before leaving on Monday midnight, the US military had disabled the planes, armoured vehicles and the rocket defence system at the airport, news agency AFP reported quoting Central Command head General Kenneth McKenzie.

On the way forward, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken said Washington's engagement with the Taliban regime will entirely depend on its conduct in respecting human rights, especially of women and minorities, and forming an inclusive government.

The US and its allies have managed to evacuate an estimated 1.23 lakh before but they have left behind a few hundred American citizens and thousands of Afghan nationals wanting to escape. Meanwhile, eight Taliban fighters were reportedly killed in clashes in Panjshir, which the militia is yet to take.

The Taliban is expected to announce its government soon. "We have covered 90-95% and we will announce the final outcome in the following few days," Al Jazeera quoted senior Taliban leader Anas Haqqani as saying. P13

AUDI CAR CRASH SNUFFS OUT LIVES OF 7 YOUTHS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A group of seven friends, including the son of a Tamil Nadu MLA, who were out on a jolly ride, were killed after their speeding SUV crashed into a building at Koramangala in Bengaluru early on Tuesday morning.

Karuna Sagar (25), the only son of Hosur DMK MLA Prakash Y, had come to Bengaluru on his Audi Q3 with the Karnataka registration number and picked up his friends. They had cooked up stories to convince their parents and had gone out.

The high-speed crash occurred around 1.45 am on 80 ft Road near Mangala Convention Hall at Koramangala. Bindu, (28), Ishitha Biswas, (21), Dr Dhanusha M, (29), Akshay Goyal, (25), Utsav (25) and Rohith (23) were the others killed in the horrific accident. The police said they have reasons to believe that it was a case of driving under the influence of alcohol, but are waiting for medical reports. "The CCTV footage seems to suggest that it was a case of drunk driving as the driver was not under control," a senior police officer said. The hair samples too have been sent for tests as the police suspect that the deceased could have consumed drugs, sources in the police department said.

Curiously, the airbags in the high-end SUV did not deploy, which the police and RTO experts attributed to none of the deceased wearing seat belts and the vehicle being overcrowded. MORE REPORTS: P7

J&K polls before statehood, says Lt-Guv

H KHOGEN SINGH & FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

SNUBBING political parties in J&K that are demanding restoration of statehood before Assembly elections, Lt-Governor Manoj Sinha told this newspaper that polls will take place soon after the delimitation exercise, implying that statehood will wait for elections.

"Deciding the dates of the elections is the prerogative of the Election Commission but polls will take place the moment the Delimitation Commission completes its work," the L-G said in an interview at his residence here. After the all-party meeting chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in June, many J&K parties had demanded statehood before elections, saying the future timeline should be delimitation, statehood and then elections. But the L-G's assertion means the order of priority will be delimitation, elections and lastly statehood.

Sinha said this was in line with the PM's statement on Independence day that after delimitation there will be polls. Asked when the delimitation exercise is expected to be completed, he said it should be over soon. "The commission is working very sincerely. They were here for four days recently and they have collected data from all the districts. They sought our views also," Sinha said.

Asked if there would be security implications for Kashmir after the Taliban takeover of Afghanistan, Sinha said the security forces were prepared for any possible threat. Q&A: P11

Proposal to hike engg fee worries students

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@ Bengaluru

WHILE private engineering colleges have reportedly sought a 30 per cent hike in fees from this year, the department is yet to take a decision and finalise the same. However, this has made students unhappy.

A top source from the higher education department said that it has been a while since engineering colleges were allowed to hike their fees. The last reported hike was in 2019.

However, the demands were made many months ago and a decision is yet to be taken on the same. "A meeting is planned by the second week of September, and based on consensus, the hike in fee will be decided," the source added.

Meanwhile, students under the aegis of All India Democratic Students' Organisation (AIDSO), have opposed any proposal to increase fees for engineering courses. Drawing from a report, students said the government is planning to increase the engineering course fee by 10 per cent, complying with the demand of "profit-minded private management lobby."

They said that despite collecting full fees from students, the private management lobby failed to pay salaries to lecturers and staff and some received just 30 per cent of their wages. Contradicting the education department's claims, students said that fee was hiked by 10 per cent a year ago.

In addition to this, they said that the lockdown and its aftermath has made engineering and medical education more expensive and exclusive only for the privileged, further alienating poor and middle class aspirants.

Offline classes not must, students to attend in batches

SOPs in place for school reopening; Saturday to be sanitisation day, closed for students

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@ Bengaluru

WHILE schools are set to open for grades 6-8 on alternate days from September 6, the department has stated that attendance is not mandatory for physical classes, and children can attend online or alternative classes.

Additional and supportive learning will be provided through telecast programmes, said a circular from the department on Tuesday.

Saturdays will be declared a holiday for students, and the day will be set aside for complete sanitisation of the premises. Students will be allowed to attend classes on producing a consent letter from parents, and an undertaking that the student is not suffering from any Covid symptoms. They are to carry their own food and water from home. However, schools have been told to provide hot drinking water to those who need it.

The department has put out an advisory time-table for schools. Students will attend classes in batches of 20, and will get Saturday off.

Schools time-tables are to be structured under the guidance of local education officers and in tandem with SOPs, based on classroom availability, number of students and teachers.

The department has also sought regular updation of the assessment of students on the SATS portal, in case results have to be declared on an emergency basis.

Neelima M, Principal, Narayana e-Techno School, welcoming the announcement that offline classes are not mandatory, believed that hybrid classes are the best option for the foreseeable future. "Necessary equipment should be installed to allow simultaneous running of online and offline sessions," she said.

Schools are even looking forward to elementary school students being allowed on campus.

Pending projects: RERA sets Oct 1 deadline

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Real Estate Regulatory Authority (K-RERA) made it mandatory for all projects, which were supposed to be completed between between April 1 and October 1, to be in place by October 1. This move has received flak from home buyers, as it offers another extension of deadline for projects, which were meant to be in place earlier.

The order was issued on August 27. General Secretary, Forum for People's Collective Efforts (FRCPA), M S Shankar, said, "This extension defeats the very purpose of RERA as its intent for balanced and fair decision in its role as regulator for all stakeholders is now under brazen threat."

He pointed out that home buyers will continue paying EMI and rent for extended periods, despite facing acute hardship due to job losses and pay cuts in the pandemic. "Homebuyers will also not be able to get corresponding relief either in the form of any additional tax relief or relief from payment of EMI or rent. Such extension is bound to create havoc and unimaginable financial stress on them," he charged.

Referring to the second wave, Shankar said that work did not stop nor was a complete lockdown announced either by the state or the central government. "The entire second wave lasted merely for two months. However, RERA has granted extensions for projects defeating any rationale or logic," he alleged.

He charged that the decision was "a one-sided one, detrimental to one stakeholder arbitrarily and without any logical or legal basis."

Psychosocial, disaster expert retires

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

HIS body of work is an encyclopedia of human emotions unrobed in the face of natural and man-made disasters, and the journey of human spirit towards recovery and healing, in which he and his team have played an intrinsic role.

Professor of Pscyho-Social Work (PSW) and Head of Centre for Disaster Management, National Institute of Mental Health & Neuro Sciences (NIMHANS), Dr K Sekar on August 31 demitted office after a four-decade long association with the premier mental health institute.

Dr Sekar has worked in all natural and man-made disasters in the past two decades -- the 1993 Latur earthquake, the 1999 supercyclone in Odisha, 2002 Godhra riots, tsunami in 2004, Kashmir earthquake in 2005, Kandhamal riots in 2008 and the Covid-19 pandemic, where he set up the state and national helpline to address issues arising out of the pandemic.

He has also travelled to countries ravaged by natural disasters to provide psychosocial support to people and train the trainers. Dr Sekar has played a key role in building community support for mental health, and was in the core group for drafting the National Disaster Management Guidelines for providing psychosocial support.

Infra support for Airport, ORR lines

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TO boost the much-needed Multimodal Integration (MMI) and Transit Oriented Development (TOD) along Metro corridors, Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) has now engaged World Resources Institute (WRI India) as technical advisors for Phase 2A and Phase 2B.

The move is an offshoot of the round table discussions on TOD and MMI for Bengaluru's Metro Rail Corridors held on August 26, 27 and 31. WRI India is a global research organisation focusing on building sustainable, liveable cities and working towards a low-carbon economy.

An official release said, "The initiative seeks to bridge Bengaluru's disconnect between mass transit infrastructure and unprecedented growth. TOD will help redirect growth along its rail transit corridors, enabling walkable and connected neighbourhoods."

Asian Development Bank (ADB) has financially assisted Bengaluru Metro for its Phase-2A (Silk Board to KR Puram) and 2B (KR Puram to KIA) projects and also provided technical assistance for TOD. WRI India will offer ADB technical advisory support.

Anjum Parwez, Managing Director, BMRCL, said, "The move will facilitate mobility and development along the Phase 2A and 2B Metro rail corridors. We see this as a possibility to implement TOD and MMI in Bengaluru, by tapping into the best practices of other cities."

CONDUCT SURVEY OF TOILETS, HC TELLS LEGAL SERVICES AUTHORITY

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the member secretary of the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority (KSLSA) to conduct a survey on toilets in the city, their conditions, including availability of water, and if they are cleaned or not.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order while hearing the public interest litigation filed by city-based Letzkit Foundation.

The court directed the member secretary of the KSLSA to submit detailed report within four weeks and furnish the copy of the report to the respondent authorities. Further hearing was adjourned to October 7, 2021.

Claiming that there were not enough public toilets in Bengaluru and the existing ones were not properly maintained, the petitioner has sought directions to BBMP to provide sufficient number of public toilets both paid as well as for free usage and ensure that those toilets are kept clean as per the guidelines prescribed under the Swachh Bharat Mission launched by the Union government.

The petitioner also contended that as per guidelines, Bengaluru required 1,100 public toilets and a toilet complex set up every 7 km. However, as per the information available on the BBMP website, Bengaluru has only 479 toilets constructed between 1965 and 2014.

PETER VIDAL

01st September: Have you ever wondered how astrology works? My best answer is that it's astrologers who work. Astrology is less an immutable science and more an interpretative art that tells us about the meaning and significance of the universe!. It also assumes that the whole cosmos is alive and conscious!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
It's time to make room for a whole new cycle of pleasure and sensation. The fact is that the entire disposition of your solar chart inclines towards self-indulgence, no matter what commitments you have taken on. That doesn't mean that you won't have practical burdens to bear, just that you should deal with them with an optimistic spirit.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Professional acclaim will soon boost the confidence of those of you currently pursuing serious ambitions. You will do very well if you present yourself as the representative of tradition and authority, and other people seem inclined to accept your version of events.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Business associates are inclined to be muddled, increasingly so, for a few days. You may therefore like to think ahead, anticipate difficulties and take evasive action. Keep control of the domestic accounts, and try to reach a calculated consensus.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Someone, somewhere, is behaving very strangely, perhaps mysteriously so. However, looking at all the interconnections between the planets, it may be that this particular person is acting true to character, but that your perception of the situation has changed.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You may now be considering implementing certain changes and, in truth, only you can judge whether the current time is right for you, or if you should wait a little while longer. Your main consideration is that others are kept up-to-date and properly informed.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
It is undoubtedly time for a complete fresh start at work. This doesn't necessarily imply a change of job, only that you leave behind those bad habits which have prevented you making the most of yourself in the past. It's about time a friend saw the real you as well.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Whatever the next few weeks hold in store for you, you can be sure that the outcome will be as desired. This is a public time, which means you should play your full part in the world and keep your social diary full. If your engagements are altered at a moment's notice, don't complain, but go with it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Aside from all the psychological ramifications of today's brilliant alignments, there is one very specific interpretation: a healthy increase in your earnings as a result of all past efforts to achieve status and promotion. Let us hope that the promise of the stars is fulfilled!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
One stunning group of planets denoting long-distance travel lines up with another revealing the need for partnership. The ideal way to express your remarkable planetary potential is to set off around the world in search of the party that never stops!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
There is every chance that you will be taking on new responsibilities, and that these will be closely bound up with your financial situation. Any new money won't be yours to spend as you please, but could come with very strong strings attached.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You are not blind to whatever has been going on behind your back, but neither need you do anything about it. In all matters of the heart your position is virtually unassailable, and any ground you yield now will be restored later. What you have to do, though, is pick the right partners and avoid the wrong people.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Both personally and professionally, today could be a turning point, but it does seem to be home and family affairs which are most important. One thing is certain, only you know what is best, so don't let others impose their ideas on you.

As 2nd wave tails out, state does better than TN, Kerala

Comparison of August 2020 and 2021 shows Kerala pattern of cases, deaths differs sharply from the other states

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru:

A comparative analysis of three southern states — Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Karnataka — in terms of positive cases and deaths in the months of August 2020 and 2021, shows that Karnataka has done better in August 2021 than the other states.

The number of positive cases from August 1-28, 2020, in Karnataka was 2,11,813, however, in the same month during the second wave, the number of positive cases reported was 40,862. The number of cases in Tamil Nadu also reduced -- 1,63,379 cases were reported in August 2020, but the number was 50,702 in August 2021. In sharp contrast, Kerala reported 45,691 positive cases in August 2020, and 5,86,811 cases in August 2021.

Similarly, the number of deaths also differs drastically. Karnataka saw 3,275 deaths in August 2020 and 699 deaths in the past month. Tamil Nadu saw 3,115 deaths last August, and 780 deaths this month. The pattern in Kerala is different: 201 deaths last August, and 3,685 deaths this August.

According to an analysis by Jeevan Raksha, an initiative of Proxima which focuses on health care, the Case Fatality Rate for August 2021 in Karnataka remains high at 1.7 per cent, compared to Tamil Nadu's 1.5 per cent, and Kerala's 0.6 per cent.

Sanjeev Mysore, convener, Jeevan Raksha, said, "Due to high density of population in Kerala, there is no major urban-rural divide. The surge is uniform across all 14 districts of the state. In Karnataka, the situation is entirely different. Bengaluru Urban alone contributes 42% of the total Covid cases and deaths, while the remaining 29 districts contribute 58%. The CFR is high in the rest of Karnataka than in Bengaluru, the primary reason being delay in testing and non-availability of RT-PCR testing in smaller towns and villages."

The study shows that from August 16-22, 2021, 1,249 people succumbed to Covid-19 -- 893 (71%) in Kerala, 190 (15%) in Tamil Nadu and 166 (13%) in Karnataka.

The pattern of deaths is also different. In Karnataka, one in four deaths was below the age of 50 years, and out of 166 deaths, 19 deaths were in the 31-40 age group. In Kerala, one in five deaths was above the age of 80 years, and Tamil Nadu reported one in five deaths in the 51-60 age group.

AUGUST 1-28, 2020

STATES	CASES	DEATHS	CFR (%)
Karnataka	2,11,813	3,275	1.5
Kerala	45,691	201	0.4
Tamil Nadu	1,63,379	3,115	1.9

TARGET SET

BBMP draws up plan for 100% 1st dose cover

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

WITH Bengaluru Urban achieving a target of 100% first dose vaccination coverage of the targeted population, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has also come out with an action plan to speed up vaccination and achieve 100% first dose coverage in the next 45 days.

BBMP has decided to extend vaccination timings to 9m. Earlier, vaccination sites used to operate till 4pm, but now, two vaccination centres in each assembly constituency will operate from 8am to 9pm every day. Over 50 vaccination sites will operate from 8am to 9pm.

Special Commissioner Randeep D said, "We aim to achieve complete first dose coverage of the targeted population in the next 45 days. Now we have surplus supply of around 1 lakh vaccines every day, while the number was 35,000-50,000 earlier. We hope to achieve 1 lakh plus doses per day."

As of August 29, over 75 per cent of first dose coverage, and 27 per cent second dose coverage was completed in BBMP limits.

BBMP also aims to achieve 1 lakh vaccinations per day. Permanent vaccination centres that identified in PHC limits will operate from 8am to 2.30pm, effective September 1. If the public waits in the queue even after 2.30pm, vaccination will be continued.

BBMP has also initiated a mega camp called 'Bruhat Lasika Shibira' to be conducted in three locations – Malleswaram playground, Epidemic Diseases Hospital, Yelahanka New Town, and Ambedkar Bhavan. The vaccination drive will begin at 8am and continue to 9pm.

Health officers are also advised to arrange vaccination for residents of slums and low-income groups, and special camps in areas where vaccination camps haven't been held.

Mobile vaccination centres will be used to vaccinated the public at bus and railway stations, markets, government offices and tech parks and also near the houses of senior citizens, bedridden patients. A 'Lasika Mela' will be held every Wednesday, where the target is to vaccinate 1.5-2 lakh people.

Randeep added that certain people are still hesitant to get vaccinated. "In order to address this, we have asked local leaders to spread awareness and make public announcements. We also decided to bring in teams to talk to residents and remove hesitancy."

After shunning the jab, Dawal Malik villagers finally relent

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Gadag

FINALLY, the residents of Dawal Malik village in the district have agreed to get vaccinated against Covid-19, but only after health department officials warned that they would declare the village an 'unsafe place'. The trick seems to have worked, with 90 villagers getting vaccinated on Monday.

Health officials and ASHA workers, including the taluk administration, first organised a camp in the first week of June, but no villagers turned up. The staff went to each house to vaccinate seniors and women, if they did not wish to come out. But the entire village declined to take the jab.

The argument of the villagers was that Dawal Malik, a Sufi saint whose dargah is in the village, would save them from the pandemic, so they don't need vaccination. The taluk administration was worried as other villages have already reached 70 per cent vaccine coverage, but only 4 villagers of Dawal Malik are vaccinated.

On August 25, officials again visited the village and warned villagers that a board would be displayed, saying that nobody in the village was vaccinated, and no outsider, even devotees of Dawal Malik, would be allowed to enter the village. They gave them a week's time to think it over. Finally, the villagers agreed to take the jab, and 130 villagers were vaccinated in the past two days.

With policing in focus following the Mysuru gang rape incident, a one-day conference of top police officers of the state will be held in Bengaluru on September 6. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Home Minister Araga Jnanendra will participate

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai chairs a review meeting of different departments in Bengaluru on Tuesday | EXPRESS

State to bring reforms in administration from Nov 1

Over 800 services will be available online if recommendations implemented

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE State Government plans to start work on implementing the recommendations of the Administrative Reforms Committee from November 1 and an advisory committee will be constituted for this purpose, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has said. If the recommendations are implemented, a host of citizen-centric services will be streamlined using technology and will save people the hassle of running from pillar to post.

Currently, services mostly related to the Revenue Department are available at the Atalji Jana Snehi Kendras at the hobli level while certain other services are available at the Bapuji Kendras at the panchayat level. For some services, however, one has to go to the district headquarters.

"Whatever measures can be implemented at the earliest, we will take it up to improve administration," Bommai said at a review meeting of various departments on Tuesday.

The committee, headed by former Chief Secretary T M Vijay Bhaskar, has recommended a single-window agency for nearly 800 online services of all departments. It has also said that all these services should be made available at BangaloreOne and KarnatakaOne centres, Bapuji Seva Kendras and Common Service Centres as well as on the Seva Sindhu portal. This can be implemented by adopting better technologies, the committee noted.

This apart, the committee has recommended e-offices where physical movement of files or paper communication can be reduced. For example, a paper communication from a tahsildhar's office to the Deputy Commissioner's office takes about 15 days as it has to go through several officials. By introducing e-office, communication or letters can be sent through mails using digital signature. This will not just save time, but also the burden on officials, the commission felt. It has also recommended abolishing a few posts, including Regional Commissioners. Most of these reforms can be undertaken without much expenditure, it noted.

The government appointed Vijaya Bhaskar as chairman of the Administrative Reforms Commission in January.

Sources said that of the 856 recommendations, more than 80 per cent can be implemented within a few months. While some reforms can be implemented by issuing a government order, some need cabinet approval. Only about 15-20 per cent of the recommendations need to be placed before the House and undertaken by passage of Bills, the sources said.

WHAT CAN BE EXPECTED

- More than 800 citizen-centric services at panchayat/hobli levels
- Reduction in processing time as use e-offices is recommended
- Cutting down unnecessary posts that are a financial burden on the government.

Clear pending files in 2 months, officials told

During a review meeting with various department officials on Tuesday, the CM pointed out that many files are pending in some departments like Revenue, Urban Development and Education. He directed the officials to clear all of them within two months. Regarding pending court cases, the CM said that an Under-Secretary or Deputy Secretary in each department will be named to coordinate with the Law Department and work towards disposing of court cases at the earliest. He also urged department secretaries to visit villages and solve local problems. Many unnecessary expenses can be cut down if officials look into it, he said. The CM also said the financial condition of the government is better now, compared to last year, with good GST collections and economic activities picking up.

Looking at 120+ seats in '23 Assembly polls: Arun Singh

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

WITH less than two years' time before the Assembly elections are held, the BJP seems confident of forming the next government on its own strength. Party general secretary in charge of Karnataka, Arun Singh, told TNIE they are confident of winning a majority with comfortable numbers. Asked what the party will be targeting, he exuded confidence saying, "We will get more than 120 seats".

With Lingayat strongman B S Yediyurappa no longer Chief Minister, there is a big question mark on whom the party will project as its leader. On his part, Yediyurappa has said he will work to strengthen the party at the grassroots level. Political analyst B S Murthy said, "The BJP continues to be in a dilemma about the exact role B S Yediyurappa will play for the next 18-months. Add to this, more than 40 per cent of BJP legislators have won more than three terms and could face anti-incumbency."

However, Arun Singh said Yediyurappa is an experienced leader who has gone to each and every corner of the state, and his state-wide tour will benefit the party. "We will definitely use his experience in Karnataka, he is the tallest leader in the state," he said.

On the upcoming bypolls to Hanagal (Haveri) and Sindagi (Vijayapura) Assembly seats, Singh said, "The party karyakarthas have already started ground work and are confident of a comfortable win." Asked about the massive loss in Maski, where the party lost by about 30,000 votes, he said, "That was because of anti-incumbency, and also because the candidate who was in the BJP had switched over and lost narrowly in the previous election." He countered it by saying, "In contrast we won by a huge margin in Basavakalyan."

On the preparation for the upcoming zilla and taluk panchayat polls, he said, "We are concentrating on the party structure and are strengthening the mandal committees and morchas."

'JDS sinking ship, no alliance with party'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

IN the backdrop of Tamil Nadu's continued opposition to the Mekedatu project, BJP national general secretary Arun Singh on Tuesday said the interests of the people of Karnataka will be protected.

Singh, also a Rajya Sabha MP, said the government will ensure that Karnataka is benefited. Asked about Tamil Nadu BJP state president and former IPS officer Annamalai protesting against the Karnataka government's move to go ahead with the ambitious project, Singh said, "The expectation of people of this state will be taken into consideration and it will also be our priority to resolve the issue."

On the renewed bonhomie between the BJP and JDS seen during the Mysuru mayoral election, Singh termed the latter a "sinking ship" and ruled out any alliance or understanding, officially or unofficially, with the party.

"The BJP wants to wrest power with absolute majority in Karnataka. People have seen both the Congress and JDS governments and have hopes only in BJP rule. As the world's largest party, the BJP will not forge alliances with anyone. The party will meet the aspirations of people under the leadership of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai," he said.

Lauding the Bommai government, Singh defended former CM B S Yediyurappa's plans to tour the state, saying it will further galvanise party workers ahead of the panchayat polls. "The BJP wants to use his seniority and mass following to strengthen the party."

Maintaining that there is no confusion in the government, he said that two ministers, who were sulking, have agreed and accepted the portfolios assigned by the Chief Minister.

When asked about lack of representation for Mysuru in the cabinet, he shot back, "Minister S T Somashekar is doing a good job." There are many senior MLAs who could not make it to the cabinet and many senior workers who could not get tickets to contest the Legislative Assembly election, he added.

Earlier, he said that the party base in Mysuru and Chamarajanagar region was overwhelming and urged party workers to popularise the programmes of the BJP government to ensure that the party wins more seats in the next assembly elections.

TN requests state to compensate for water shortage

KARNATAKA is keen to take up the balancing reservoir project to provide drinking water to Bengaluru after obtaining necessary approvals. During his recent visit to the national capital, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had discussed it with Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat.

While Karnataka has been insisting that there is no irrigation component in the project and it will not have any impact on releasing its share of water, Tamil Nadu is opposing the project on the grounds that it would impact its farmers..

During Tuesday's meeting, Tamil Nadu requested Karnataka to compensate for the shortage of water released over the last three months. Officers from Karnataka, however, explained that inflows into four reservoirs in the Cauvery basin are lesser than expected this year and it would be difficult for the state to make up for the shortage fully. During June, July and August in a normal year, Karnataka has to release 86 tmcft of water. It has released 56 tmcft this year, the sources said. The hydrological and meteorological situation in the Cauvery basin was reviewed and it was observed that the flows released up to August 29, 2021 from Biligundlu were less than the prescribed norm. The Authority directed Karnataka to compensate for the shortage in September depending on the inflows, the sources added.

Ministers should not skip session, says Kageri

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AHEAD of the legislature session, which starts on September 13, Assembly Speaker Vishweshwara Hegde Kageri has asked Chief minister Basavaraj Bommai and Law and Parliamentary Affairs minister J C Madhuswamy to direct all cabinet ministers to attend the proceedings.

In a letter to the CM and the Law Minister, Kageri pointed out that many ministers take time off to visit their constituencies even while the session is on. Some ministers have already written letters seeking permission to attend some events when the House will be in session. Legislators may ask questions related to the ministers' departments and it is important for them to be present and give replies, Kageri stated.

Noting that it is not a good practice to skip sessions, especially when questions related to particular departments are raised, Kageri said that it will deprive members the chance to get answers directly from the ministers concerned. Hence, the CM and Law minister should direct all the ministers to attend the session on all days, he stated.

The Speaker has also written to all the ministers urging them to attend the session all days and requested them not to seek permission to attend other events during session hours. He has also directed the Chief Secretary and other officials not to skip the House proceedings.

'Hold caste census every 10 years'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FORMER chief minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday said the caste census should be conducted once in 10 years as it helps to scientifically formulate social and economic programmes and to provide reservation benefits to those eligible.

Speaking to media persons, the Congress leader noted that since all castes and sections of society are not getting equal opportunities, the Congress government had conducted the caste census.

"Now, even Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar is demanding a caste census. It will be good if it is done once every 10 years on the lines of the general census," he said, adding that his party will take up the matter during the legislature session. The 10-day legislature session will start on September 13.

Leader of the Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramaiah and KPCC president D K Shivakumar attend a party programme in Bengaluru on Tuesday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Responding to a question on JDS MLA G T Deve Gowda joining the Congress, Siddaramaiah said they had discussed the issue between themselves as well as with party state president D K Shivakumar. They will now take up the matter with the high command, he added.

In the 2018 Assembly elections, Deve Gowda had defeated Siddaramaiah from Chamundeshwari Assembly constituency in Mysuru.

Meanwhile, Siddaramaiah batted for reopening of schools after taking all precautions and putting in place safety measures.

"The government should also take measures to avoid large gatherings of people during Ganesh Chaturthi festivities," the former chief minister said.

DOWN TO BUSINESS

BOMMAI CABINET TO MEET ON SATURDAY

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

WITH all dissent now quelled, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai will chair the second meeting of his cabinet on September 4. Tourism Minister Anand Singh, who had skipped the last meeting as he was miffed with the portfolio allotted to him, is expected to be present this time around.

Among the issues that are expected to be taken up in the meeting will be administrative approvals to some of the announcements made, specially those announced on Independence Day by the CM, apart from other pending proposals. The outcome of the CM's recent meeting with Union Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekawat in Delhi and the state legal team, and the legal challenges before the state on the water resources front could also be discussed.

On September 7, the CM will leave for New Delhi to meet the central leadership to discuss the portfolio issue raised by Anand Singh. Many other party leaders too will be in Delhi to participate in the wedding reception of Union Minister Pralhad Joshi's daughter on the same day.

Meanwhile, Union Home Minister Amit Shah will arrive in Karnataka on Thursday to participate in the inauguration of a police school in Davanagere. He is also expected to speak to the BJP ministers who had raised voices of dissent over allocation of portfolios.

One more arrested from TN in gang rape case

Police patrol isolated spots in Mysuru on Tuesday | UDAYSHANKAR S

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

THE special team investigating the gang rape of a college student at Chamundi Hills has arrested the sixth accused in the case, who had been absconding since the incident last week.

Based on information from the five arrested accused, including a juvenile, the sixth accused was picked up from a village near Tiruppur district in Tamil Nadu. On Monday, the police had taken four of the accused to the crime scene, and they are expected to take the sixth accused there after the court grants them custody.

The police learnt about the involvement of one more person during interrogation of the other accused and they are now gathering more information about him.

Meanwhile, sources said that the police, who are questioning the accused at an undisclosed location, are digging up their crime records. It is said that the gang, comprising labourers, a driver and a carpenter, frequently visited Mysuru to deliver farm produce and other goods to the APMC yard, and commit robbery, dacoity and other petty crimes. They had also allegedly sexually harassed several women.

Prime accused in jewellery store case held

The Mysuru city police have also arrested two more men, including the mastermind, in the dacoity and shooting case at a jewellery store in the city last week. With this, the number of arrests in the case has gone up to eight. The two were caught with the help of the Bhayander Vasai Virar police from Achole in Palghar district of Maharashtra. The main accused is a business rival from Mahadevapura who had hired contract killers from various states to rob the jewellery shop.

Meanwhile, one of the accused who was nabbed in Rajouri, Jammu and Kashmir, has been brought to the city.

The Yeshwantpur police have arrested a woman who allegedly stole gold valuables from a devotee at Kukke Subramanya, and have recovered valuables worth over Rs 20 lakh. The police have in turn solved a case registered in Kukke Subramanya police station.

WITH NO CHECKS, SPEEDSTERS HIT THE PEDAL

Race on roads at night, take advantage of Covid situation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WITH checks on overspeeding, reckless driving and drink-driving having stopped ever since the pandemic set in, there has been a rise in the number of accidents and crashes.

According to Bengaluru Traffic Police, jolly riders are taking advantage of the Covid situation, and overspeeding on highways and empty roads, especially at night.

A senior police officer told TNIE, "We have stopped drink-drive checks due to Covid restrictions and also concern that our staff may get infected during checks. Thus, people violate night curfew norms and venture out on to empty roads and indulge in reckless driving. This is leading to road accidents, often fatal ones, putting pedestrians and other commuters at risk."

Ashoknagar traffic police staff said: "We usually stop vehicles to check the condition of drivers after noticing their driving speed. We warn them before allowing the vehicle to proceed. It is not the duty of the police to tell them not to overspeed, parents have to educate their children on how to drive safely."

Srinivas Raju, a resident of Ashoknagar, said he has noticed high-end cars being driven at high speed on Lavelle Road, MG Road and Residency Road at midnight. Police should collect CCTV footage of those vehicles and take legal action. These drivers are putting lives at risk and police should put up barricades on these roads at night, Raju said.

Praveen Rao, a resident of Koramangala, said 80-Ft Road is famous for speeding, and many of those who visit pubs in this area are involved in drunk driving. Police should identify such vehicles and seize them immediately, he said.

The spot where the incident happened is 500 metres from my house. It is the first time that I witnessed such a scene in the morning. The road has a slight gradient, and where the incident took place is towards the lower end... we were speculating if this had caused the accident. Fortunately, no other car was parked in the area and also no one was asleep on the footpath... it is an upscale locality, but with limited police presence.

ON A HIGH IN THE FAST LANE

NOV 2015: A 36-year-old drunk techie Baljit Singh mowed down two pedestrians in his high-end car on Sarjapur Main Road. Mala (42), a homemaker, and Chinnapaiappa (48) were killed on the spot. The accused had gone to a restaurant with friends and was returning after midnight.

JUNE 2013: Rajesh Reddy, son of a realtor, rammed his Audi into an autorickshaw at the Mayo Hall junction on MG Road, killing Deepak (19) while his two cousins escaped with injuries. The trio in the auto had finished work at a pub and were returning home to Murphy Town. Reddy, a resident of Indiranagar, was involve in two such incidents after this one. In all the cases, he escaped from the accident spot, leaving the vehicles behind. Known as Bengaluru's Salman Khan.

JULY 2013: Krishnappa, a landlord and former president of Bommanahalli municipality, ran over 12 people in his Land Rover, killing four of them on the spot in Parappana Agrahara. He was under the influence of alcohol, and ran away from the scene after the accident.

MARCH 2012: A drunk woman ran amok in Toyota Fortuner, killing a mason, R Nagaraj, sleeping on the pavement in Kalyan Nagar. Four other labourers, Shivayogi, Hanumantappa, L Gouda and Rangappa, sleeping next to him, escaped with injuries. The woman, Mahi, and her friend Ravi abandoned the vehicle and fled. They were returning from a party.

JAN 2009: Karthik Somaiah, a marketing operations manager, driving a Honda Accord on Indiranagar 100 Ft Road, hit a security guard on a bicycle and then mowed down four senior citizens on a morning walk.

'Clear case of negligent driving'

BR Ravikanthe Gowda, Joint Commissioner of Police (traffic), told The New Indian Express, "It is a clear case of reckless and negligent driving. Preliminary investigations revealed that Sagar was driving the car. An autorickshaw driver, who was near the spot at the time of accident, alerted the police. Based on his statement, a case has been registered at the Adugodi traffic police station".

Sagar, who lived at Denkanikottai in Tamil Nadu, had told his father that he was going to Bengaluru to buy some diet medicines. His mother Shivamma died just four months ago due to post-Covid complications.

The SUV was heading from NGV Junction towards Forum Mall when the accident occurred, the police said. The vehicle ran over the footpath and crashed into the bollards before ramming into Punjab National Bank building. "The impact was so high that pieces of debris and parts of the car flew high in the air. The police had to use a crane to extricate the vehicle and pull out the bodies, which were taken to St John's Hospital," a police officer said.

A case under Sections 279 (rash driving or riding on a public way) and 304a (causing death by negligence) of the IPC has been registered. The case is being investigated by an officer of the rank of an assistant commissioner of police.

Assessing the CCTV footage, another police officer said that the SUV could be moving at speeds of around 180 kmph when it crashed.

Imran, an eyewitness, said, "Three men were sitting in the front, while four were in the backseat. I rushed to help and found that one was still breathing. We tried to move him to a hospital. But he died on the way."

ADDITIONAL Director General of Police (Railways) Bhaskar Rao has filed a protest petition before the Special CBI Court to reject the final report filed by the Central Bureau of Investigation in connection with an illegal phone-tapping case and to order for further investigation.

The case is related to the alleged illegal telephonic interception in which, the former Additional Commissioner of Police - Bengaluru City, Alok Kumar, who is currently ADGP (KSRP), was in the dock, following allegations that he had misused his official powers and instructed his subordinates to intercept phones of some politicians and bureaucrats. The case was exposed after a TV channel aired conversations of Rao – who had just taken over as the new chief of Bengaluru City Police -- with a person believed to be a political tout.

The government had referred the investigation to the CBI, which had raided several places, including the residence and office of Alok Kumar. On June 30, the CBI had filed a 'B' Report (closure report) to the court to drop the proceedings.

On Tuesday, Rao moved a protest petition before the court as a victim.

"At least two suspects are clearly referenced and frequently adverted to in the investigation and the same are Alok Kumar and Kushala (a journalist). The CBI probe itself clearly prima facie bears out that they have violated Sec. 72 of the Information Technology Act, 2000, and Section 26 of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885. Yet, they are not named even as suspects, though no special privileges or exemptions are afforded by the legislation either to the police officer or a journalist to collect, access, or utilise illegally intercepted information," Rao stated in his petition.

There is no criminal or normal organ: Kerala HC

Quashes district panel order rejecting plea for transplant by kidney patient

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

THE Kerala High Court on Tuesday quashed an order issued by the Ernakulam District Level Authorisation Committee for Transplantation of Human Organs which rejected a plea for organ transplantation citing that "the donor is involved in multiple criminal cases".

"There is no organ in the human body like a criminal kidney or criminal liver or criminal heart. There is no difference between the organ of a person without a criminal history and the organ of a person who has such a background. Human blood is passing through all of us," observed Justice P V Kunhikrishnan.

The court also cited a situation from 'Thottampattu' of 'Pottan theyyam', a traditional art form of North Malabar. The situation is that a person belonging to a lower caste says to an upper caste person, "If I cut my body, human blood will come and if your body is cut too, the same human blood will come." Then, the lower caste person asks, "Since the human blood passing through the bodies is similar, why there is caste discrimination?" These are the words written centuries back.

"Where are we now? Let the people know about the myths and stories of 'Pottan Theyyam' of North Malabar," said the court. Justice Kunhikrishnan issued the order on a petition filed by Radhakrishna Pillai of Nedumbana in Kollam, a kidney patient, challenging the order of the committee. The committee rejected his application for kidney transplantation stating that "the donor is involved in multiple criminal offences".

He said there is no prohibition on accepting the organ of a person who is involved in criminal offences.

The court said provisions in the Transplantation of Human Organs and Tissues Act, 1994 and The Transplantation of Human Organs and Tissues Rules, 2014 support the stand of the committee. The intention of the Act and rule is only to prevent commercial dealings in human organs and tissues.

"I apprehend that the committee will reject such applications for permission to donate organs even on the ground that the donor is a murderer, thief, rapist or involved in minor criminal offences. I hope they will not reject the applications because the donor is a Hindu, Christian, Muslim, Sikh, or a person from a lower caste after comparing with the religion and caste of the recipient," observed the court.

"What sort of reasoning is this? No person with common sense can agree with the same. These are flimsy reasons. A man is on a deathbed and his friend is coming forward to donate his organ. The competent authority rejecting the application observing that the donor is involved in criminal cases when there is no such prohibition as per the 1994 Act," observed the court, and directed the committee to reconsider the petitioner's plea within one week.

KRMB meeting unlikely to take call on water sharing

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

If there is no consensus on water sharing between the sibling States, what decision would the Krishna River Management Board (KRMB) take? The KRMB is unlikely to take a decision on water sharing between Andhra Pradesh and Telangana at the board meeting on Wednesday, in case there is no unanimity between the States. The board, in all probability, may refer the matter to the Jal Shakti Ministry for a solution.

Though the common projects - Srisailam and Nagarjuna Sagar - have filled up to the brim, the board has not allocated water to the sibling States in the present water year. While Telangana wanted 50 per cent share of the assured 811 tmcft, AP opposed it. AP wanted the Board to continue the existing sharing formula of 66:34 between the two States.

As officials of both the States present their arguments in the meeting, the board cannot take a decision favouring anyone. In such a case, the board may refer the matter to Jal Shakti Ministry for a solution, sources said.

"We are a separate State now. We need not beg anyone for our rightful share in river waters. We will present effective arguments before the board and see that Telangana gets 50 per cent share of Krishna waters," CM K Chandrasekhar Rao said.

Owaisi, 300 booked for violation of Covid norms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

POLICE have booked a case against Hyderabad MP and president of All India Majlis-e-Ittehad-ul-Muslimeen (AIMIM), Asaduddin Owaisi and his 300 followers, for violating Covid-19 norms during a campaign for Belagavi City Corporation (BCC) elections. AIMIM is contesting BCC elections to be held on September 3, on the party symbol for the first time.

Owaisi came to Belagavi on Monday to campaign in favour of his party candidates. He participated in a campaign rally held at Darbar Galli. Thousands of people had gathered to see Owaisi at the rally and Covid norms went for a toss as people gathered without wearing masks and no social distancing was maintained. The election officer lodged a complaint against Owaisi at the Market police station for violating the government guidelines for Covid. A case was registered against 300 people, including Owaisi and other leaders.

Woman found hanging at hubby's house

Kannur: In yet another incident of domestic violence, a 26-year-old woman, Suneesha, was found hanging in her husband's house at Korom in Payyannur. Soon after her death on Sunday evening, an audio clip sent by Suneesha of Kunhimangalam to her brother surfaced, giving hints about the torture she had to suffer at her husband Vijeesh's house. In the clip, she is heard saying that Vijeesh and his family used to beat her up. She told her brother that unless her family didn't take her back, she wouldn't survive in her husband's house.

Lecturer held for sexual harassment

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Jajpur

A lecturer of a private college in the Odisha district was arrested on Tuesday for allegedly sexually harassing male students of the educational institution.

The accused was identified as Niranjan Panda, a lecturer in Political Science department of Chitalo Mahavidyalaya, police said. He was arrested on the basis of a complaint lodged by a student with Jajpur Town police on Monday night.

The complainant alleged that Panda forced students to spend nights with him at his residence by offering them help in examinations.

He threatened to reduce marks in examinations if they didn't agree to his proposal.

"Panda sir had asked several students to spend nights with him on the pretext of helping them in examinations. We recorded his calls and vulgar messages. Audio clips between the lecturer and students besides screenshots of his WhatsApp messages have also gone viral on social media," the student said in his complaint.

Jajpur Town IIC Manas Ranjan Chakra said basing on the complaint, police registered a case under sections 294 , 354 (b) and 506 of the IPC and arrested panda. Further investigation is on. On the other hand, Panda has refuted the allegations levelled against him.

DMK pushes through with dissolution of varsity

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

AFTER about a month since proposing to merge Dr J Jayalalithaa University based in Villupuram with the Annamalai University in Chidambaram, the Tamil Nadu Assembly passed a Bill in this regard on Tuesday.

Additionally, the Annamalai University, which has been a unitary institution so far, will now on function as an affiliating type of university. Colleges located in Villupuram, Cuddalore, Kallakurichi, and Mayiladuthurai districts will be affiliated to the varsity.

Objecting to the move, the principal Opposition party, the AIADMK, walked out of the House. The party's MLAs, later staged a road-roko in front of the Kalaivanar Arangam, where the Assembly is currently functioning. They were all arrested and let off after a few hours. However, the ripples were felt across the State with AIADMK cadre taking it out on the streets opposing the Bill. The Bill was opposed by the BJP, too, but found supporters in the allies of the DMK. It was passed by a voice vote.

Annamalai University

Deputy Leader of Opposition, O Panneerselvam, said the Jayalalithaa University was named after the former Chief Minister in honour of her huge contributions to the educational development in the State. However, out of political animosity, the DMK government is merging it with the Annamalai University, he said.

In the past one month, when AIADMK leaders, including former Chief Minister and Leader of Opposition, Edappadi K Palaniswami, and former Law Minister CV Shanmugam levelled similar charges.

BOUNCE-BACK SLOWS ON COVID FEARS, DAMP CONSUMER SENTIMENT

The looming fear of a third wave of new, resistant strains of Covid and continuing sagging consumer sentiment have ganged up to puncture the economy's bounce-back. The indicators are there. Two-wheeler and home sales, bellwethers of consumer sentiment, are stagnant. Closed colleges and lockdown restrictions have ensured that the inventory/ stockpile of popular brands from Hero MotoCorp, Bajaj Auto and other big two-wheeler manufacturers has risen from an average 40-45 days to over 75 days. Though the first four months of the current fiscal show offtake of two-wheelers has recovered to pre-pandemic levels, the slow growth is worrisome. In Mumbai, August registrations of home sales fell 32% to 6,635 deals compared to the previous month of July, after lower stamp duty sops were withdrawn.

The elephant in the room is poor consumer sentiment. Though registering some improvement, it is continuing to sag. CMIE's index of consumer sentiment for July 2021 was 45% lower than in March 2020. Increased demand and consumer buying is what makes an economic rebound. However, CMIE points out that average household incomes have fallen 14.9% during 2020-21; and if you make adjustments for 6% inflation, the real fall may be as high as 20%.

No wonder people are holding on to their money and only buying what they think are necessities. Again, CMIE says those who lost jobs have moved to lower-paying ones. So while employment came back, income did not. This has made people skeptical of any near-term turnaround. Meanwhile, manufacturers, by repeatedly hiking prices, have dampened consumer demand further. Prices of motorbikes and scooters for instance have risen 25% in the last two years. Maruti Suzuki, the largest of passenger car manufacturers, has announced a price hike from September across all its models—its fourth this year! The same is the story in the construction industry—all input costs are moving north. Manufacturers in turn are blaming the government for higher taxes on input commodities. If industry and government don't work together to make life less expensive for the common man, it is unlikely there will be any bounce back.

ADDRESSING THE I-T PORTAL MESS

Even as Infosys has failed to fix the glitches in the new e-filing website of the income tax department three months after its launch, the clamour for reviving the old website gets louder. It would be a big setback for the government that swears by new technology and makes big claims of creating digital interfaces for ease of doing business and ease of living if it has to go back to the old website, even if it is probably the most viable option now. The government seems to be averse to the idea. The finance minister had recently said that reviving the old e-filing website was not the best option the government had as many features required for filing new ITRs were missing in the earlier website. The government, meanwhile, has again extended the dates for several tax-related compliances due immediately (in August/September) as well in November and December. The extensions, it seems, are more to save the government from further embarrassment than to give relief to taxpayers.

The e-filing website experience demolishes the perception that onboarding a private player alone would make things go smoothly. It did not in the case of the e-filing website. The experience with the GST network portal, which has also been developed by Infosys, was no better, if not worse. Taxpayers are now blaming both the finance ministry mandarins and Infosys for hurrying through the launch of the new website without proper testing and trial runs. And with compliance dates getting nearer, tax professionals as well as taxpayers are running out of patience.

The I-T portal is not a social media platform that can afford frequent outages and technical glitches. It is the backbone of the economy, given the fact that virtually all tax-related compliances are now done online. If Infosys fails to fix it on time, it may impact the government's revenue collection when it is already facing a severe funds crunch. Maybe it would be better for the government to pay heed to the demand for reviving the old website instead of trying to fix the new one in a hurry.

Last week, something exciting happened that many missed. India now has a more liberal and less fearful set of rules and regulations that will govern the use of drones

THIS FLYING BUS CAN'T BE MISSED

AMIT BANDRE

HARISH BIJOOR

Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults

Your next pizza might get delivered by a drone. And the next gruesome crime in our lives could get solved by a quick and efficient process of drone policing at the spot of crime.

There is an exciting future in drones and what they can do. The drone is really an Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) that competes for airspace to do a lot more than we do through it today. In many ways it is the last frontier, as we have used the land and the sea and our waterways to the optimal point to fulfil our various needs, wants, desires and aspirations. The air and its potential is yet to be conquered.

Six days ago, an exciting new thing happened in the Indian context. The Ministry of Civil Aviation notified the Liberalised Drone Rules, 2021. The Press Information Bureau, Government of India, put this out promptly, as it normally does. Many missed it possibly. As if anticipating that, PM Narendra Modi tweeted that it would be a landmark move that would open up possibilities for innovation and business, with a wish to see India as a drone hub of the future.

I am excited. India now has a more liberal and less fearful set of rules and regulations that will govern the use of drones. That's refreshing. The sad fact has been that most rules that define the use of common airspace, globally, operate in an environment of fear. What if this is misused? What if all the negative things you can do with a drone overtake all the positives? What if a terror group gets hold of it? The real point is that fear of misuse must never stop use. Fear cannot dictate the future.

In many ways India's new sets of rules and regulations that govern drones represent a fresh way of thinking. Out here, fear does not define the agenda. Instead, it is the picture of the great big business application opportunity out there to capture, which defines India's future steps in this space. As for the fear factor, there are controls built in to take care of that.

Can India then be the great big drone hub for the region? I think it can, provided we take the right steps, quick and fast, with drone liberalism as the tone, tenor and mantra of growth.

What is a drone then? Many things really. Just like the internet, RFID and the GPS as pieces of technology in our contemporary consumer lives today, drone tech also started with military use and applications. And just as the internet and GPS is something every business uses across the world today as a key facilitator of the tech life we take so much for granted, drones hold the same potential in the years ahead.

The drone is a facilitator. A key enabler that will disrupt businesses in the very near future ahead. And it comes in all sizes. The smallest could be as small as half a house sparrow and the largest could have a wingspan that is 140 feet, wing-to-wing, literally as large as a modern jetliner.

And it does many different things. We have seen many flying about at wedding 'sangeets' and 'baraats' in India, capturing the aerial view none of us ever get to see. We have seen it in our movies, as the camera takes a cinematic top-view and very quickly cascades into a close-up of the face of Samantha Akkineni lounging around. And then we have seen the hobbyist flying around a drone as a toy in our gated enclaves. This has been our use of drone as play. Time to discover the real-play then. The business-play for drones ahead.

Every business, big or small, will need to have a drone-play woven into it in the future. The drone will become a key facilitator, as the power of automation in reach, delivery and tracking terms grows exponentially

I do believe that the drone is the next disruptor of business as we know it. Every business, whether it is big or small, will need to have a drone-play woven into it in the future. The drone will become a key facilitator, as the power of automation in reach, delivery and tracking terms grows exponentially. Drones will bring in savings in terms of both time and money. Drones will reach those parts of the country that we have always found difficult to reach. And to that extent, the drone is going to make geography history.

Imagine the potential of the new era of business ahead of us. A bank employee posted at Mayyadi village near Byndoor in Karnataka will be able to get onto Instagram (thanks to the access due to internet technology and thanks to the application, that is again a gift of new technology in our lives), order a Ghevar from Jodhpur Mishthan Bhandar in Jaipur through a D2C (Direct to consumer) interaction, and get it delivered from their local hub via a drone delivery at doorstep!

With drone technology to be rolled out, nothing is distant in the future. Nothing inaccessible. Nothing too far to get. Drones in the near future will bring us our medicines and possibly every e-commerce order for delivery at rooftop, if not doorstep. Drones will be used in the real estate industry, as much as it will in the industry of surveillance, the industry of search and rescue, the industry of industrial inspection and project progress. Expect them in agri surveys, underwater inspections, and in mapping and survey, as in literally every industry interface there is to crack.

The drone is today a $15.6 billion market with a CAGR of 57.5% projected for the next five years. Expect this to cascade exponentially as everyone discovers a new 'd' in their business. Just as we have "tech" as a suffix in most businesses today, 'Edtech', 'Agritech' and all the other techs to quote, time to prepare for a "d' prefix for every business. 'dJournalism', 'dPolice', 'dAgriculture', 'dSearch', 'dRealEstate', and "d" before every business there is!

Every business is a drone-potential business then. In the beginning it is an investment and an expense. In the middle it is a saving. And at the end of it all, it is automation tech that fills in all the gaps that could not be filled till now.

Time to do a quick audit of your business and decide a drone roadmap ahead. This flying bus can't be missed. Let's fly with it.

CENTRE'S U-TURN ON BREAKFAST IN SCHOOLS

OMKAR POOJARI

Mumbai-based columnist who writes on politics, polls and occasionally on policy

Last month, the Modi government launched a publicity blitzkrieg to mark the one year anniversary of the New Education Policy. While several suggestions of the NEP became contentious, leading to an all-out tug-of-war between the Union government and its political adversaries, there were at least a couple of suggestions that were well received and had universal acceptance—the extension of the Mid-Day Meal Scheme (MDMS) to pre-primary students and the decision to supplement the meal provided in government and aided schools with breakfast.

The NEP, which replaced the 34-year-old education policy passed in 1984, had noted, "Children are unable to learn optimally when they are undernourished or unwell. Hence, the nutrition and health (including mental health) of children will be addressed through healthy meals and the introduction of well-trained social workers, counsellors and community involvement into the schooling system."

The policy, citing research, had further noted that providing a nutritious breakfast to students would prove productive in the study of cognitively more challenging subjects. The Union Cabinet had given its nod to the breakfast at school scheme in August 2020. But the proposal to add breakfast to the MDMS menu has been dropped for now.

Recently, during a discussion on the scheme, when the parliamentary standing committee had quizzed the Education Ministry about its status, the ministry had stated that while the decision to cover pre-primary classes by the MDMS was approved by the Ministry of Finance, the MoF did not agree to the breakfast at school proposal owing to the paucity of funds.

The finance ministry's decision to veto the breakfast scheme, which would have cost the government a sum of ₹4,000 crore, comes at a time when several surveys have thrown light on the adverse impacts of the pandemic on the nutrition levels and education of children hailing from marginalised backgrounds. According to the National Family Health Survey 2015-19, 18 states have reported a sharp spike in the number of stunted, underweight or wasted children below the age of five. Data by UNESCO says that the closure of about 1.5 million schools has impacted the education of over 247 million children across India.

Earlier this year, the budget of the school department was cut by 8% from ₹59,845 crore in the 2020-21 budget estimate to ₹54,873 crore in 2021-22.

While the prime minister has often spoken about India's demographic dividend, the failure of his government to invest a paltry sum of ₹4,000 crore on the nation's future and on the education and nutrition of children hailing from underprivileged communities at a time when it continues to spend thousands of crores on publicity and vanity projects like the Central Vista and custom-built VVIP aircraft for the PM and the President defies logic. The MDMS scheme has been a proven game-changer—ensuring higher enrolment rate in schools and reducing the dropout rate. As schools begin to reopen, there is a strong possibility of children from marginalised backgrounds not joining schools again. Adding breakfast to the MDMS can prove to be an added incentive for such students to come back.

While the Modi government's U-turn on the breakfast at school scheme is reflective of its failure to prioritise the education and nutrition of India's children, it also highlights the mismatch between the BJP's words and actions. Not a long time ago, in the run-up to the Tamil Nadu Assembly polls, the BJP was actively trying to claim the legacies of Kamaraj and M G Ramachandran. In an attempt to gain some much-needed political capital in a state where the saffron party sorely lacks an icon of its own, leaders were making promises of bringing back Kamrajar Aatchi (Kamaraj's rule) and the golden era of MGR.

The mid-day meal scheme has helped ensure higher enrolment rate in schools and reduce the dropout rate. As schools begin to reopen, there is a strong possibility of children from marginalised backgrounds not rejoining schools. Adding breakfast can prove to be an added incentive for them

Interestingly, both these leaders have been credited for the robust public education system of Tamil Nadu and the expansion of the mid-day meal scheme in the state. While Kamaraj launched the mid-day meal scheme in 1956 and gradually expanded it, MGR as the CM scaled it up 25 times to cover all poor children for 365 days a year. Both MGR and Kamaraj had to find ways to overcome the scarcity of funds and resources to keep the scheme up and running. During his chief ministership, Kamaraj had sought help from locals, community organisations and even international programmes like the American government's CARE. When MGR decided to expand the scheme, the state had to deal with a deficit of ₹300 crore and the determined CM had to devise nifty ways to fund the ambitious project. A CM's Nutritious Noon Meal Programme Fund was created and donations to the fund, which were exempt from income tax, were made mandatory for obtaining government clearances and even routine administrative orders. Funds were also raised by way of a day's salary of government staff, one month's salary from the party's MLAs and MPs and even earnings from cinema shows.

Alternatively, cost-effective and more innovative ways can be employed to provide breakfast under the MDMS. Dr R Gopinath, senior scientist at the M S Swaminathan Research Foundation (MSSRF) whose areas of specialisation include food security and the MDMS, says, "Lessons can be learned from the examples of states like Gujarat and Kerala that have been providing breakfasts along with mid-day meals. In Kerala, the higher participation of local bodies has facilitated the supplementing of mid-day meals with breakfast. In some areas, schools have taken over adjoining plots and brought them under cultivation. The yield is then utilised for providing breakfasts while resources from the state and Union government are used for the mid-day meals. The government can also identify high-risk malnutrition districts and selectively implement the scheme in such places as soon as the schools reopen."

It remains to be seen if the BJP-led NDA government finally walks the talk, taking a leaf out of the books of Kamaraj or MGR—the very icons it attempted to appropriate not too long ago—to make the breakfast at school scheme a reality.

An inspiration

Sumit Antil lost his leg in a major motorbike accident in 2015. Avani Lekhara met with a car accident when she travelled with her family in 2012 and got paralysed from the waist down. Both these sportspersons have now bagged gold medals in the Tokyo 2020 Paralympics. They did not wilt when facing tough times and are true inspirations for our younger generation.

Carved new paths

Kudos to Avani and Sumit. I thank the newspaper for publishing their life stories on Page 1. Their lives were hit by road accidents but their will made new paths for them. They inspire us and more than that, challenge us. Congratulations to all the Paralympic Indian participants.

US claims suspicious

The US said it destroyed an explosive-laden vehicle with an air strike in Kabul. This makes one nonplussed. The US intelligence apparatus abysmally failed to gauge the capture of Afghanistan by the Taliban at breakneck speed. How has it become so efficient now? If it is so easy to surgically strike targets remotely, then why has it not adopted this strategy for the last 20 years?

We're converting disaster into dividend: J&K Lt-Guv

Manoj Sinha says things are getting better in the UT, tourists are coming and development projects are running with greater transparency

AFTER unveiling of the industrial policy, J&K had expected about ₹25,000 crore investment, but the response has so far been overwhelming, J&K Lt-Governor Manoj Sinha tells H Khogen Singh and Fayaz Wani in an interview...

The thrust of the government has been on development. What are big projects undertaken which have made a difference to the people of J&K?
We have completed about 22,000 projects in the last year. There was a legacy of languishing projects. A special scheme was launched to complete the projects and we have completed 1,100 of these. Five projects were started 20 years back and 165 about 10 years back. They were all incomplete. We have converted liability into assets and disaster into dividend.

What type of projects were languishing for the last 10 to 20 years and why?
They include school buildings, roads, government departments, primary health centres etc. In J&K, there was a tradition of no system working. Now there is total transparency. Without administrative approval, no work can be undertaken. If there is no e-tendering, the treasury will not accept bills.

Has developmental work gained momentum?
Under the PMGSY, on an average 1,600-1,700 kms of roads used to be built in J&K in a year. Last year, the average rose to 3,600-3,700 kms and this year it is 4,000 kms. As far as blacktopping of roads is concerned, an average of 2,200-2,400 kms used to be macademised. Last year, 6,000 kms were macademised and this year we have fixed a target of 8,000 kms.

What is being done to augment power position?
In the last 70 years, only 3,500 MWs capacity of electricity was installed. It is a power deficit region. We have signed an MoU with the NHPC on the Sawalakote power project. It is being constructed from 1984 and has not been completed yet. We are hopeful it will be completed in five years. Hydro power is not reliable during peak hours so we need alternate sources of energy. We have signed MoUs for solar power.

What measures are being taken to boost tourism. Are there new destinations in the pipeline?
Tourists are coming in large numbers. About 10 lakh came in July. This is a message in itself and it needs to be understood. People feel it is safe to go to J&K. It is true that there are some tourist destinations that are not known to people. We are trying to tap this potential.

Did unemployment go up during Covid in J&K?
There are more than four lakh government employees and 90,000 daily wagers. We recently advertised for 20,000 government jobs, of whom 4,000 have joined and 12,000 results have been declared. Verification of the rest is going on. We will be giving special weightage to families which do not have a single member in government service. Besides, 1,700 people were appointed in J&K Bank in the most transparent manner. We have abolished interviews for Class III and IV positions. Self employment can be a big source of employment and we are trying to break the mindset of the youth who want government jobs only. As per the CMIE data, unemployment rate in J&K was 29.9% in 2016, 21% in 2019 and 19.5% in 2020. Due to our cohesive and targeted efforts, the March 2021 figure was 9.3%. After the second wave, it increased to 10.6% in June.

What has been the response to the industrial policy?
The new industrial policy focuses on ease of doing business. We have got tremendous response. We were expecting ₹25,000-30,000 crore of investment and the creation of five lakh jobs. But the response has been such that we are expecting double the investment and the creation of 10 lakh jobs. Many of the investors have even submitted the fees and have been given land also.

Will the Taliban takeover of Afghanistan have security implications here?
I don't see any threat. It will take the Taliban at least 3-4 months to settle down. Our forces are not only ready but they also have clarity of purpose. As per the constitution, the president and the head of a state has a right to dismiss any government employee who is a threat to the state. Even the J&K constitution had the same provision and action was taken. We sacked 21 government employees for being involved in anti-national activities.

How do you assess J&K's security situation?
August 15 was celebrated in every school and panchayat. This was for the first time in J&K's history. Some people met me who wanted to hold such functions. The situation has improved and stone pelting incidents are a thing of the past.

When will Assembly elections be held?
The J&K Reorganisation Act says after completing delimitation, elections will be held. Some say when elections in Assam can be held without delimitation, why not in J&K. It's simple: seven seats have increased in the J&K Assembly. Who will define boundaries of those seats? The PM said after the delimitation exercise is completed, polls will be held.

ADR ANALYSIS

70% income of parties comes from unknown sources: Report

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

A large part of income of political parties comes from unknown sources, including electoral bonds. These parties collected ₹3,377.41 crore from such sources in 2019-20, which was 70.98% of the total income of these parties.'

A report by poll rights group Association for Democratic Reforms (ADR) says out of ₹3,377.41 crore, income from electoral bonds was ₹2,993.82 crore or 88.64%.

Parties need money to reach out to voters, explain their goals and policies and receive inputs. But an analysis of their IT returns and donation statements filed with the Election Commission shows that sources remain largely unknown.

Parties don't have to reveal names of individuals or organisations giving less than ₹20,000, nor those who donate through electoral bonds. More than 70% of the funds can't be traced. Between 2004-05 and 2019-20, parties collected ₹14,651.53 crore from unknown sources. In 2019-20, BJP declared ₹2642.63 crore from unknown sources, which is 78.24% of the total income of parties from unknown sources.

ADR has found that this income of BJP is 3.5 times more than the aggregate of income from unknown sources declared by the other six national parties (₹734.78 crore). Congress declared ₹526 crore from unknown sources, which is 15.57% of the total income of parties from unknown sources. Combined income of Congress and NCP from sale of coupons between 2004-05 and 2019-20 was ₹4096.725 crore.

"Since a very large percentage of the income of political parties cannot be traced to the original donor, full details of all donors should be made available for public scrutiny under the RTI. Countries where this is done include Bhutan, Nepal, Germany, France, Italy, Brazil, Bulgaria, the US and Japan. In none of these countries, it is possible for more than 70% of the source of funds to be unknown," said the ADR.

25 wanted Indians believed to be in Afghanistan: Intel

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

NEARLY two dozen Indian nationals wanted by India in cases of terrorism may be living in Afghanistan close to Pakistan border, according to information from intelligence and investigative agencies.

Sources said these Indians were captured and jailed by Afghan forces. However, with the Taliban freeing thousands of jail inmates, many Indians are also believed to have been freed and rejoined terror groups, including the Islamic State Khorasan Province (IS-K).

Security agencies are keeping a watch on these 25 Indian nationals, most of whom hail from Kerala, because the terror network they joined, IS-K, is believed to be responsible behind the Kabul airport suicide bombings last week.

According to intel received by the agencies, these Indians are believed to be living in Nangarhar province, near the hometown of Amin al Haq, the former security chief of Osama bin Laden, who was detained by Pakistan's army and later released. Sources say that at this point in time, it is not clear how many of these 25 wanted Indians are alive, since many of them were involved in suicide attacks and encounters with Afghan forces.

Among the jail inmates the Taliban are believed to have released is IS-K recruiter Aijaz Ahangar — listed as a most-wanted terrorist in India.

Security officials believe after being freed, most of the members of IS-K are in the process of regrouping and rebuilding their ranks and network. Some members of the Taliban are also believed to have joined IS-K.

Other terror suspects among the 25 include Abu Khalid Al-Hindi alias Mohammed Sajid Kuthirulmmal, a shopkeeper from Padne area of Kasargod in Kerala, who was wanted in a 2016 NIA case and had an Interpol red notice against him. He is suspected to have been involved in the attack on a Sikh shrine in Kabul last year.

Afghan cadets in academies can continue

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

TRAINING of Foreign Gentlemen Cadets from Afghanistan in various military academies in India will not get affected due to the events following the Taliban takeover of Kabul. Also, India will assist them to travel to Afghanistan or countries which give them entry.

A source said, "The government will help them apply for e-visas to move to countries that have expressed willingness to accept Afghan refugees." Foreign Gentlemen Cadets earn various diplomas and certificates during their training in India. This process of allowing Afghan cadets to train in Indian academies started in the 1970s. In all, over 1,000 cadets have passed out of Indian Military Academy and Officers Training Academy. The Afghan cadets also join the National Defence Academy for undergraduate training. At present, there are around 150 Afghan cadets undergoing training at IMA, OTA and NDA.

Taliban connection

Sher Mohammad Abbas Stanikzai, the Taliban's head of political office in Doha, is a former Afghanistan Army officer who trained at Indian Military Academy in 1982 and served his nation's army till 1996.

UNSC resolution satisfies India

New Delhi: India on Tuesday said the resolution on Afghanistan, which was adopted by the UNSC under India's presidency, addresses New Delhi's concerns regarding the Taliban takeover of the country. Resolution 2593 was put forward by the US, UK and France and garnered the support of 13 of the 15 members of the council. China and Russia abstained from voting. The council, under India's month-long presidency, has adopted three press statements with regard to Afghanistan. It condemns the August 26 Kabul airport attack, which has been claimed by ISIS-K, an affiliate of the Islamic State which is believed to have many members from Pakistan.

Chief Justice of India NV Ramana (C) with the women judges of the Supreme Court in New Delhi on Tuesday | PTI

Women judges rare even in new era

KANU SARDA @New Delhi

THE glass ceiling is finally broken. The Supreme Court got three women judges on Tuesday, including Justice BV Nagarathna, who is in line to become the first woman Chief Justice of India (CJI) in September 2027. Prior to this, only eight women, including sitting judge Justice Indira Banerjee, were appointed as apex court judges in the history of the top court, starting with Justice M Fathima Beevi in 1989.

Across 26 high courts, there are only 82 women judges out of 1,079. Madras tops the list with 13, followed by Punjab and Haryana who have 11 women judges each. Delhi and Bombay have eight women judges each. There is one each in Gauhati, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu&Kashmir, Jharkhand, Rajasthan and Sikkim.

Even Attorney General KK Venugopal had batted for inclusion of more women judges in the judicial system. He also cited skewed gender disparity in designation of lawyers as senior advocates. There are only 17 women senior advocates in the top court, as compared to 403 men.

In Delhi High Court, there are only eight women designated as seniors, while 229 are men. In Bombay High Court, there are 157 male senior advocates and only six women.

Nine new judges were administered oath of office on Tuesday by CJI N V Ramana. Besides Justices Kohli, Nagarathna and Trivedi, others sworn-in are Abhay Shreeniwas Oka, Vikram Nath, Jitendra Kumar Maheshwari, CT Ravikumar, MM Sundresh and PS Narasimha. Amongst them, Justice Nath and Justice Narasimha will become CJIs in the near future.

The strength of the Supreme Court has now risen to 33, including the CJI, out of the sanctioned strength of 34.

Parliament disruptions uncalled for, says Vice-President

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

EXPRESSING concern over disruptions in Parliament, Vice President Venkaiah Naidu on Tuesday said that while the legislatures are meant for deliberation on issues of wider public concern, 'disruption' has emerged as the chief instrument of parliamentary conduct.

Delivering the first 'Pranab Mukherjee Memorial Lecture' on the theme 'Constitutionalism; Guarantor of Democracy and Inclusive Growth' organised by the 'Pranab Mukherjee Legacy Foundation through video conferencing, on the occasion of the first death anniversary of the former President of India, Naidu said that the mandate given by the people and the trust imposed by them should not be betrayed by the elected representatives.

"Protesting against the omissions and commissions of the governments on the floor of the legislatures is the right of the legislators. But the emotional underpinnings of such protests should not cross the limits of decency and decorum that should mark parliamentary democracy," he said. "Dysfunctional legislatures prevent wider consultations before making of laws and framing of policies. Such disruptions negate the principle of accountability of the executive to the legislatures," he added.

A-I looking into complaint of missing luggage

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE civil aviation ministry has sought a report after an Air India flight from Delhi to Chicago took off from Delhi without the baggage of many passengers.

The matter came to light after a passenger named tweeted his luggage was not loaded. The passenger tagged Union Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia and Union minister Hardeep Singh Puri. "AI 127 Delhi Chicago. Flight lands without the luggage of 40 passengers. Imagine the plight of those people."

Taking cognisance of the tweet, the aviation minister asked the national carrier to investigate and respond on the matter. "Air India please investigate and respond," Scindia tweeted. Air India has initiated an inquiry. "We are checking with our Chicago baggage team to address this on priority," it said.

Third Covid wave in India likely only in pockets, think experts

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

SCIENTISTS and biostatisticians are rushing to prepare mathematical models for a possible third wave of Covid-19 in India, but most epidemiologists and public health specialists reckon that surges may only happen in pockets rather than hitting the country in one go.

Panels of experts, including the one under National Institute of Disaster Management and another under the department of biotechnology, have predicted a possible third wave in September-October with a large number of daily cases.

Virologists think India is likely to see outbreaks in small pockets at one time in areas and communities with low levels of exposure, even though 30,000-50,000 daily cases could continue to be reported.

Visually impaired persons in a queue for vaccination in Kolkata on Tuesday | PTI

Virologist T Jacob John said estimates showing big Covid numbers in coming weeks may be reflecting only "fear and speculation", rather than basing projections on a scientific model. "As per data available, while nearly 40 crore Indians may still be susceptible to Covid-19 infection, I see little chance of a major wave even if there is a new variant, which is more transmissible than the Delta variant," he said.

John argued that his understanding was based on the premise that for a major wave, a large population in a defined geography needs to be infection-naïve. "However, this is a new virus about which our understanding is evolving and I may be wrong."

Epidemiologist and health systems expert Chandrakant Lahariya said India may not have a large-scale national wave, adding that any subsequent wave would be localised. "I would argue that rather than thinking when and at what scale the subsequent wave could appear, our approach should be to prepare each and every Indian state," he said.

Lahariya, however, felt it is difficult to predict which state will be affected more, but added that states with weak laboratory and public health networks and disease surveillance systems are at higher risk.

"This is because by the time transmission has peaked in the state, it could be a long delay. It is also time that we use every possible data source, triangulate it, and put our best disease modeller for developing projections on the trajectory of cases for every district in India," he said. "That's how we can be better prepared to respond."

According to public health researcher Oommen C Kurian, with schools reopening, states which have shown relatively low vaccine and natural infection-induced seroprevalence may see an increase in cases.

However, many states which have shown lower seroprevalence, have either covered the vulnerable population with vaccines like Kerala, or have a high proportion of young population such as Jharkhand and Assam. "Unless a new variant attacks, mortality levels should remain low," he said.

STATES ASKED TO VACCINATE SCHOOL STAFF

New Delhi: The Centre on Tuesday asked the states to design a roadmap at district levels for vaccination of all teaching and non-teaching staff, as schools have reopened in most of the states amid concerns of a third wave. In a meeting with states, Union school education secretary Anita Karwal said National Disaster Management Authority protocols should be followed.

OVER 1 CRORE VACCINATIONS ACHIEVED AGAIN

New Delhi: India administered nearly 1.1 crore doses of Covid-19 vaccines on Tuesday, the highest single-day vaccinations so far, repeating a feat of over one crore jabs in a day three days after achieving it first. According to Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandwiya, over 1.09 crore doses were administered till 6 pm on Tuesday. The count was expected to go up further.

BJP MP Sushil Kumar Modi (centre) being garlanded by supporters at the BJP OBC Morcha meeting in Patna on Tuesday | PTI

'BJP is for caste census, working out modalities'

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

THE Centre is working out the modalities of caste census and is committed to the uplift of the OBC, said national president of BJP OBC Morcha Dr K Laxman. Not revealing the details of the modalities involved, he reiterated that the BJP was not against the caste headcount.

Speaking to TNIE from Hyderabad, Laxman said what the BJP has achieved in the past seven years far surpasses the achievements of others in 70 years. He slammed the Opposition parties for trying to eke out political mileage out of a sensitive issue and said: "The Congress or the RJD have no moral right to raise this issue. Their propaganda would be exposed in the upcoming Assembly polls in five states."

He reiterated the Centre was not against caste census and said the commitment of the government to further the lot of the OBCs was demonstrated by "granting reservation to over 70,000 OBC students in educational institutions".

"However, caste census cannot be conducted in a matter months in a vast country like India with population in the excess of 130 crore," he said.

Targeting the Congress and the RJD, he said: "When they were in power, they did not even implement the recommendations of the Mandal commission. Now, they are projecting themselves as the champions of OBCs."

Citing the example of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who belongs to an OBC caste, Laxman questioned whether there was any other party that has promoted a person from the ranks to hold the top job. "Most of these Opposition parties are of the families and for the families, not for the people," he stated.

The statements assume significance in the wake of a Bihar delegation, led by Nitish Kumar, calling on the PM for caste census. Moreover, the JD(U) recently went back to Nitish-as-PM-line, straining relations with ally BJP.

Rahul raps Jallianwala revamp, his CM doesn't

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

PUNJAB Chief Minister Amarinder Singh on Tuesday took a markedly different stand from Congress former president Rahul Gandhi on the recently-renovated Jallianwala Bagh memorial. While Rahul slammed the Centre for hurting the sentiments of the people by insulting the memory of the martyrs, Amarinder said he found the renovations 'nice'.

"Such an insult to the martyrs of Jallianwala Bagh can only be done by those who do not know the meaning of martyrdom. I am the son of a martyr. I will not tolerate the insult of martyrs at any cost. We are against this indecent cruelty," Rahul Gandhi had tweeted after Prime Minister inaugurated the renovated memorial on Saturday.

Jallianwala Bagh massacre of Hindus, Muslims, Sikhs who gathered for Baisakhi galvanised our freedom struggle. Only those who stayed away from the struggle can scandalise thus

Sitaram Yechury, CPM

However, later in the day, the Punjab chief minister welcomed the Centre's move to renovate the memorial. "I don't know what has been removed. To me it looks very nice," Singh said.

Congress general secretary KC Venugopal lashed out at the Centre, slamming it for creating an event out of a tragedy. "BJP not only erased all traces of the massacre by revamping Jallianwala Bagh, but also added insult to injury by celebrating with sound and light show!" he tweeted.

Other Congress leaders came in support of Rahul, with Jaiveer Shergill alleging the BJP government's project of giving a makeover to the "Jallianwala passage is not to preserve but erase the marks of atrocities committed by General Dyer during British rule. Central vistafication of Jallianwala Bagh passage is the ultimate insult to those killed on that fatal day! Shame".

Sidhu slams govt inaction on drugs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chandigarh

THERE was no let up in Navjot Singh Sidhu's attack on his government on Tuesday, too, with the Punjab Congress president slamming Amarinder Singh's inaction against drug mafia. He targeted both the current dispensation and the previous SAD government for offering VIP security to those who were toying with the lives of the youth.

His statement came ahead of the Punjab and Haryana High Court taking up a report submitted by a Special Task Force in the ₹6,000 crore Bhola drug racket on September 2.

Slamming the Amarinder and SAD governments' inaction, Sidhu said despite the High Court orders, both the governments did nothing to extradite 13 drug smugglers. "These smugglers operated under the cover of government security using VIP vehicles," he alleged.

Sidhu said people are counting on the HC taking stern action against the accused, something which the previous and the present dispensations had failed to do. "Even the common man knows why these drug smugglers were not extradited in the past five years. If they were brought to book, they would have spilled the beans on the unholy nexus of drug peddlers and politicians," Sidhu claimed.

6 die in cloud burst in Maha's Jalgaon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

Heavy downpour wreaked havoc on several parts of Maharashtra, including Mumbai and Thane, on Tuesday. A cloud burst incident was reported from Chalisgaon in Jalgaon district, where the sudden mishap reportedly drowned 600 animals and left six people dead. Local MLA Mangesh Chavan said the entire Chalisgaon taluk was submerged after the incident.

"Roads are blocked, while vehicles are floating. A rain-triggered landslide has cut off the taluk by blocking a road connecting Aurangabad. The situation is very grim," BJP MLA Chavan said.

Ahmednagar and Beed districts, too, received heavy downpour, with most rivers in the area in spate. NDRF teams were pressed into search and rescue operations in submerged and low-lying areas.

On Monday, two women had drowned in a canal in Sawargaon of Loha taluka in Nanded district on Monday. The deceased were identified as Mankabai Dagadgave (52), who was swept away by heavy currents in a canal, and Parvatibai Dagadgave (45), whose body was yet to be recovered.

Indian Meteorological Department (IMD) warned light to heavy spells of rain in the central and northern parts of Maharashtra and the Konkan belt for the next 3-4 days. Rains pummeled Mumbai, Thane and Palghar throughout Tuesday, disrupting traffic movement at many places. However, no major episode of waterlogging or casualty was reported.

Wean youth away from terrorism, urges Army

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

IN a first-of-its-kind outreach, top army and police officials on Tuesday urged the families of terrorists in south Kashmir to bring back their children into the mainstream.

The officials made the plea during an interactive session with the families of 83 active terrorists on the sidelines of South Kashmir Sports Festival at Batpura Stadium in Shopian. GoC 15 Corps Lt Gen D P Pandey, IGP Kashmir Vijay Kumar (inset) and Major General Rashim Bali attended the event.

During the event marking the first time the top army and police officials interacted with families of active terrorists and urged them to convince their wards to surrender, Lt gen Pandey said: "I want to appeal to the families to convince their wards to surrender. If they think they would be killed upon surrendering, their names could be kept secret. Visit any army or police camp and inform the officials whom you trust. We will silently bring him out and shift him outside for a few years. He will remain under your care and after a few years he can return here and become a respectable member of the society."

"Nothing good will come out of losing your wards to terrorism," he said, adding, "The families should tell white-collared jehadis to pick up the gun and fight against security forces."

Impetus to industrial growth via new portal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday launched a portal for registration of units for Industrial development in Jammu and Kashmir. He said ₹50,000 crore is expected to be invested in the Union Territory through this Central scheme.

Asserting that Articles 370 and 35A were the biggest hurdles to private sector investment in the erstwhile state, Shah encouraged industry leaders to invest in Jammu and Kashmir.

Shah, who also heads the ministry of co-operation, said a new dawn of investment and industrial development will begin in the Union Territory with this initiative. "Today, the most attractive industrial policy of the country is here. Under this policy, investment of more than ₹50,000 crore will come to Jammu and Kashmir and under this, there will be all-inclusive, all-round development," he said.

The scheme aims to give fresh thrust to the industry and services-led development of Jammu and Kashmir with emphasis on job creation, skill development and sustainable development by attracting new investment and nurturing the existing ones. Shah said the onus of development of J&K is not only on the locals but also on the country. Apart from tourism, education and IT, this policy will also take forward many other possibilities, he said.

Another Maha minister skips summons from ED

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

TWO days after being summoned by the Enforcement Directorate for questioning in an extortion case, Shiv Sena minister Anil Parab refused to appear before the agency on Tuesday, citing prior engagements. He was summoned by the agency for questioning into the extortion racket run allegedly by former home minister Anil Deshmukh. Sources said the summons were based on revelations made by other accused.

Maharashtra transport minister Anil Parab sought 14-day time to appear before the ED. "The ED notice is quite vague. Though I was expecting an ED notice, it does not mention why I am to be questioned. It also does not mention any particular case or matter," Parab said, adding he was seeking legal advice.

Maharashtra BJP state president Chandrakant Patil said Parab should have appeared before the ED on Tuesday. "If notices are issued to common people, they honour it. If they fail, they do so on pain of arrest. As a minister, Anil Parab not attending the session sends wrong message," Patil said.

Patil alleged Maharashtra former home minister Anil Deshmukh, too, is evading the ED summons. "How long will they run from the probe? If they have not done anything wrong, then they should appear before the investigative agency," he said.

Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut said Maha Vikas Aghadi leaders are getting ED notice one after the other.

"This raises suspicion that BJP is behind it. It seems that BJP is operating the ED office to target its opponents. ED is more like a political tool than an impartial investigating agency," Raut said.

AIUDF wants grand alliance to stay intact

Guwahati: The AIUDF in Assam asked the Congress to not break the grand alliance. The statement came hours after the decision of Assam Congress to sever ties with the minority-based party. The Congress intimated the decision to the party's high command. "The unilateral decision to remove the AIUDF from the grand alliance is unfortunate. It will not be appropriate to weaken the Mahajot," said AIUDF.

Mucormycosis victims need two-year care

Raipur: Mucormycosis patients will need at least two years of post-operative extensive medical management for rehabilitation, said doctors and specialists associated with 15 departments at the Raipur-based AIIMS. The empirical observation was shared by the doctors during the national level Hybrid Continuing Medical Education (CME) event 'Multidisciplinary Management of Mucormycosis'.

Immerse ashes of departed digitally in Haridwar

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

SOON, those unable to travel to Haridwar to immerse the remains of their relatives will get to immerse the ashes into the Ganges without having to travel to the holy city.

Uttarakhand Sanskrit Academy has come up with Mukti Yojana on an outlay of ₹4.25 lakh, through which one can book the last rites and courier the remains for immersion into the sacred river as per Hindu traditions.

Dr Anand Bhardwaj, secretary of Uttarakhand Sanskrit Academy, said: "This initiative is for those families that cannot visit the holy city to immerse the ashes of their family members. Plans are afoot to launch the scheme within a month."

Officials from the institution said after booking online, people can courier the last remains, on receipt of which the academy would arrange a priest and live telecast the rituals for the family.

Those from overseas will have to pay $100 while for Indian residents the fee is yet to be decided.

A web portal is being developed by the institution. The academy is also working on an e-brochure in three languages — Sanskrit, Hindi and English — to give an insight into the new service.

Pradeep Jha, chairman of Shri Ganga Sabha in Haridwar welcomed the initiative and said that he would extend all possible help to the institution.

This initiative is for families that cannot visit the holy city to immerse the ashes of their kin. We plan to launch the scheme in a month

Mohali civic body on expansion drive

The Mohali Municipal Corporation is planning to expand its jurisdiction before the Assembly elections to cash in on the new areas. Last year, the corporation had brought an agenda item in the House meeting to include areas of Sector 91, 92, Sector 82, Sector 66A, Sector 74, Balongi, Barmajra, Baryali, bulk market Phase 11 and area of Sectors 116, 117, 118, 119 (TDI) within the MC's jurisdiction. The agenda item was already under the consideration of the state local bodies department and it has asked the corporation to provide the revenue records of all the areas which are to be included within the MC jurisdiction.

Get real time status of buses using dedicated app

Now commuters will now be able to get real-time information on movement of 358 Chandigarh Transport Undertaking buses running on 59 routes in the tri-city (Chandigarh, Mohali and Panchkula) and timings of their arrival and departure. For the past one year, 100 buses have been on a trial run of Intelligent Transportation System (ITS). They will now be able to live-track buses. The expected time of arrival or departure will be displayed at terminals, bus shelters through mobile app/web. A control centre has been set-up at ISBT-43. Now, smart cards will be used by commuters for e-ticketing as well as concessional travel. The commuters can recharge or top up their smart cards from customer service points at the ISBT-17 and the ISBT-43, e-Sampark centres, 'trycityBus' (a mobile application) and web.

e-Challan gets a push in transparency drive

To bring transparency and curb underhand dealings between violators and traffic police personnel, paper challans for traffic violations in Chandigarh have been done away with. The Chandigarh Police personnel have been directed to stop issuing manual traffic violation challans and hand over all challan books at the traffic lines. An order has been issued to all DSPs and SHOs by DIG Omvir Singh Bishnoi. The Chandigarh Police is using 215 e-challan machines at present. While 120 machines are with the traffic police, 40 are with the police control room unit.

AI-driven traffic signals to ease messy bottlenecks

All 40 traffic light points in the city will be synchronised by December 31. These light points will be equipped with adaptive traffic control system, which automatically gives priority to the direction with heavy traffic flow by allowing maximum green signals. The Bharat Electronics Limited (BEL) is carrying out the project of integrated command and control centre (ICCC) ahead of artificial intelligence-based ATCS installation. BEL will implement the pilot project then replicate it in the city. The Chandigarh Smart City Ltd last year signed a contract of ` 295 crore with BEL for the construction of ICCC complex, supervisory control and data acquisition systems.

Victorious Taliban focus on governance after US withdrawal

Top leaders urge people to return to work and reiterate the Taliban's offer of amnesty to all Afghans who worked with US troops

KABUL

THE Taliban reveled in their victory after the American withdrawal from Afghanistan, reiterating their pledge on Tuesday to bring peace and security to the country after decades of war. Their anxious citizens, meanwhile, are waiting to see what the new order looks like.

Having humbled the world's most powerful military, the Taliban now face the challenge of governing a nation of 38 million people that relies heavily on international aid, and imposing some form of Islamic rule on a population that is far more educated and cosmopolitan than it was when the group last governed Afghanistan in the late 1990s.

Afghanistan is finally free. Everything is peaceful. Everything is safe... People have to be patient. Slowly we will get everything back to normal

Hekmatullah Wasiq, top Taliban official

Thousands who had worked with the US and its allies, as well as up to 200 Americans, remained in the country after the massive airlift ended with the last US soldiers flying out of Kabul international airport just before midnight on Monday.

Hours later, turbaned Taliban leaders flanked by fighters from the group's elite Badri unit toured the abandoned airport and posed for photos. "Afghanistan is finally free," Hekmatullah Wasiq, a top Taliban official, said. "Everything is peaceful. Everything is safe."

He urged people to return to work and reiterated the Taliban's offer of amnesty to all Afghans who had fought against the group over the last 20 years. "People have to be patient," he said. "Slowly we will get everything back to normal. It will take time."

A long-running economic crisis has worsened since the Taliban's rapid takeover of the country in mid-August, with people crowding banks to maximize their daily withdrawal limit of about $200. Civil servants haven't been paid in months and the local currency is losing value. Most of Afghanistan's foreign reserves are held abroad and currently frozen.

"We keep coming to work but we are not getting paid," said Abdul Maqsood, a traffic police officer on duty near the airport. He said he hasn't received his salary in four months.

A major drought threatens the food supply, and thousands who fled during the Taliban's lightning advance remain in squalid camps. "Afghanistan is on the brink of a humanitarian catastrophe," said Ramiz Alakbarov, the local UN coordinator. He said $1.3 billion is needed for aid efforts, only 39% of which has been received.

The challenges the Taliban face in reviving the economy could give Western nations leverage as they push the group to fulfill a pledge to allow free travel, form an inclusive government and guarantee women's rights. The Taliban say they want to have good relations with other countries, including the United States.

There are few signs of the draconian restrictions the Taliban imposed last time they were in power. Schools have reopened to boys and girls, though Taliban officials have said they will study separately. Women are out on the streets wearing Islamic headscarves — as they always have — rather than the all-encompassing burqa the Taliban required in the past.

On Tuesday, the sound of dance music trickled out of an upscale wedding hall in Kabul, where a celebration was in full swing inside.

Shadab Azimi, the 26-year-old manager, said at least seven wedding parties had been held since the Taliban takeover, with festivities moved to daytime because of security concerns. He said the Taliban have yet to announce any restrictions on music, but that wedding singers have cancelled out of caution.

Despite billions of dollars in Western aid, more than half of Afghans survive on less than a dollar a day.

For the poorest, the change from one ruling system to another hardly matters in their daily struggle to survive. AP

Won't forget Afghan allies: NATO chief

Brussels: NATO allies face tough questions about what went wrong but will not forget the Afghans left behind, nor the fight against terror, said NATO chief Jens Stoltenberg.

Exodus fears boost pressure on EU mins

Brussels: EU ministers debated on Tuesday how to prevent or contain a feared influx of Afghans fleeing the Taliban, with Germany leading a call for migrants to stay in the region.

Important to talk to Taliban, says Merkel as Germany focuses on aid

Berlin: Chancellor Angela Merkel has stressed that Germany is focused on humanitarian aid now and on helping former local Afghan staffers who were not evacuated in the last two weeks. Merkel said their numbers are "not 300" but "between 10,000 and 40,000." Germany has evacuated more than 5,000 people from Afghanistan this month, the majority of them Afghans. She said that of those who remain, it wasn't clear how many of them want to leave Afghanistan. She says that while Germany doesn't have any diplomatic relations with the Taliban, it's important to talk to the militant group, also in order to get further Afghans in need of evacuation out of the country. Merkel spoke ahead of talks on Tuesday with her Austrian counterpart Sebastian Kurz in Berlin. Kurz reiterated his country's position to not take in any migrants from Afghanistan. He said that 'when it comes admission, my position in known. Nothing much has changed there. Especially because Austria has done a lot already. We have taken in a disproportionately high amount of people since 2015, we have the per-capita fourth biggest Afghan community worldwide.' Kurz has long taken a tough approach to migration issues. Last month he said that he also would not halt the deportations of rejected asylum seekers to Afghanistan despite the situation there. AP

UN chief warns of 'humanitarian catastrophe'

UNITED NATIONS

UNITED Nations chief Antonio Guterres warned Tuesday of a looming "humanitarian catastrophe" in Afghanistan as he urged countries to provide emergency funding following the departure of US forces.

Guterres expressed his "grave concern at the deepening humanitarian and economic crisis in the country," adding that basic services threatened to collapse "completely."

"Now more than ever, Afghan children, women and men need the support and solidarity of the international community," he said in a statement, as he pleaded for financial support from nations.

"I urge all member states to dig deep for the people of Afghanistan in their darkest hour of need. I urge them to provide timely, flexible and comprehensive funding," the secretary-general said.

Guterres announced that the UN would release details of a flash appeal for Afghanistan next week. The information will detail the "most immediate humanitarian needs and funding requirements" needed over the next four months, he said.

Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator Martin Griffiths will coordinate "the entire UN system" in preparation of the appeal, Guterres added.

He said almost half of the population of Afghanistan – 18 million people – need urgent humanitarian assistance to survive. "One in three Afghans do not know where their next meal will come from. More than half of all children under five are expected to become acutely malnourished in the next year.

"People are losing access to basic goods and services every day. A humanitarian catastrophe looms," said Guterres. AFP

Pak warns of serious consequences if global community abandons Af

ISLAMABAD

PAKISTAN'S Foreign Minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi on Tuesday warned the international community not to abandon Afghanistan, saying repeating the mistakes of the past and an economic collapse of the war-torn country will have serious consequences.

Addressing a press conference with his German counterpart Heiko Maas, he said that this is a pivotal moment in Afghanistan's history.

"The international community must remain engaged. Humanitarian assistance must flow. Do not let the economic collapse in Afghanistan take place," Qureshi said.

He warned against repeating mistakes of the past, saying abandoning Afghanistan is not an option as it will have 'serious consequences'.

Qureshi said that the international community's cooperation was essential for ensuring stability in Afghanistan. "It will give you a very good holistic view of what the challenges are, what the concerns are, what the opportunities are and what needs to be done in the days ahead," he said. PTI

8 wounded in drone attack on Saudi airport

DUBAI

A BOMB-laden drone on Tuesday targeted an airport in southwestern Saudi Arabia, wounding eight people and damaging a civilian plane, Saudi state television reported, the latest assault on the kingdom amid its grinding war in neighbouring Yemen.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack, the second such strike on Abha airport in the last 24 hours. The earlier attack, blamed on Yemen's Iran-backed Shiite Houthi rebels, scattered shrapnel across the tarmac but caused no casualties.

The Saudi-led military coalition fighting the Houthis in Yemen did not elaborate on the assault, beyond saying that its forces had 'intercepted' the explosive drone.

The attack comes just days after missiles and drones smashed into a key military base in Yemen's south, killing at least 30 Saudi-backed Yemeni troops and marking one of the deadliest attacks in the country's yearslong civil war. No one claimed responsibility for the strike. AP

Ida death toll edges upward as US South surveys damage

NEW ORLEANS

LOUISIANA and Mississippi took stock on Tuesday of the disaster inflicted by powerful Hurricane Ida as receding floodwaters began to reveal the full extent of the damage along the US Gulf Coast and the death toll rose to four.

New Orleans was still mostly without power nearly two days after Ida slammed into the Louisiana coast as a Category 4 storm, exactly 16 years after devastating Hurricane Katrina — which killed more than 1,800 people — made landfall. "Full damage assessment could take several days, as many areas are currently inaccessible," power provider Entergy said Tuesday.

Four deaths have been confirmed as crews began fanning out in boats and off-road vehicles to search communities cut off by the giant storm. A man was also missing after apparently being killed by an alligator. Images of people being plucked from flooded cars and pictures of destroyed homes surfaced on social media, while the damage in New Orleans itself remained limited.

New Orleans Airport said all incoming and outgoing flights scheduled for Tuesday were canceled, while airlines had scrapped nearly 200 flights on Wednesday.

Ida knocked out power for more than a million properties across Louisiana, according to outage tracker PowerOutage.us.

One person was killed by a falling tree in Prairieville, while a second victim died trying to drive through floodwaters some 60 miles (95 kilometers) southeast in New Orleans, officials reported.

In Mississippi, which has been buffeted by torrential rain, a road collapse left two people dead and 10 more injured, including three in critical condition, the state's highway patrol said. AFP

Death to 6 Islamist militants in gay activist's killing

DHAKA

A BANGLADESHI anti-terrorism tribunal on Tuesday sentenced six Islamist militants, including a fugitive ex-army major, to death in the brutal murder of a gay rights activist and his friend in 2016.

"They will be hanged by neck until their death," Judge Md Majibur Rahman of the Anti-Terrorism Special Tribunal pronounced as four of the convicts were on the dock while the rests are on the run to evade justice. In April 2016, Islamist militants hacked to death Xulhaz Mannan, an editor of Bangladesh's first gay rights magazine who had worked for the US Agency for International Development (USAID), and his friend Mahbub Rabbi Tonoy. The killings in an apartment in Dhaka were part of a wave of attacks targeting foreigners, religious minorities and secular bloggers.

The judge said he was handing down the capital punishment as there was no scope for showing the convicts any mercy because of the heinous crimes they committed by killing the LGBT activist and his friend.

The court acquitted two of the eight accused, who were indicted initially, while four of the convicts were handed down death penalty in another case over the murder of a progressive writer and publisher Faisal Arefin Dipan in 2015.

Prosecutors identified all of them as members of outlawed Ansar-al-Islam, a domestic militant group. PTI

Fiscal deficit at 21% as tax mop-up rises, spending dips

Tax collection grows 2.6 times to ₹5.2 lakh cr during April-June 2021

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

DESPITE an underwhelming first quarter as far as the GDP growth (20.1% growth compared to 24% contraction last year) is concerned, the government's fiscal situation continues to look rosy. In the first four months of the current financial year, the central government has managed to keep the fiscal deficit at ₹3.2 lakh crore, 21% of the Budget estimate of ₹15 lakh crore. Last year during the same period, the fiscal deficit had reached ₹8.2 lakh crore, or 103% of the Budget estimate.

The modest looking fiscal deficit number in the April-July 2021 period was largely on account of the surge in tax collections as the Centre's net tax collection (arrived at after deducting state's share) grew 2.6 times to ₹5.2 lakh crore.

The book of account

- Fiscal deficit had reached ₹8.2 lakh crore, or 103% of the Budget estimate during same period of last year
- Revenue has grown 200% to ₹6.6 lakh cr in April-July
- Govt's total expenditure in the first four month of 2021-22 was ₹10 lakh cr

RBI's surplus transfer of ₹99,122 crore in June this year has also boosted the government's total revenue receipt during the April-July period. Total revenue has grown 200% to ₹6.6 lakh crore over last year.

The government is, however, lagging behind in achieving its disinvestment target of ₹1.75 lakh crore as it has collected only ₹8,400 crore in the first four months.

The government remained tight-fisted despite disruptions created by the pandemic. Its total expenditure in the first four month of 2021-22 was ₹10 lakh crore against ₹10.5 lakh crore during the same period last year. Revenue expenditure at ₹8.8 lakh crore during the first four months of the current financial year was 7% lower than that of last year. Capital expenditure, however, saw a 15% growth at ₹1.28 lakh crore.

"The Budget estimate for gross tax revenues of ₹22.2 lakh crore can be achieved, even with a sizeable 7.5% contraction in the remainder of 2021-22, which appears unlikely with a deepening of the economic recovery in the ongoing quarter," says Aditi Nayar, chief economist, ICRA.

New high: Sensex breaches 57000-mark

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MARKETS continued their upward momentum on Tuesday with the BSE Sensex closing 662 points higher at 57,552 and the Nifty50 closing up 201 points at 17,132. This is the first time when Sensex breached 57,000 mark and Nifty crossed 17,000 level.

It took the Sensex just two sessions to climb from the 56,000 closing level to the 57,000-mark. On Monday, Sensex had zoomed 765 points to close at 56,890 while Nifty surged 226 points to end at 16,931.

Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services, said, "Led by bulls, domestic indices breached record highs amid broad-based buying due to continuation of Fed's dovish policy and the expected release of domestic GDP data. Many business activities have rebound to pre-Covid levels, the RBI had forecast June quarter GDP to grow at 21.6% on a YoY basis."

Due to this recent surge, the market capitalisation of BSE-listed companies jumped to an all-time high of ₹2,50,02,084.01 crore at close of trade.

Bharti Airtel again led the gainers on the Nifty, closing up 6.7% followed by Bajaj Finance at 5.07%.

Hindalco Industries and Eicher Motors gained over 4.5% each. Tata Motors, Nestle India and IndusInd Bank shed over a percent each today. Reliance Industries closed 0.58% lower.

Shrikant Chouhan, Executive Vice President, Equity Technical Research, Kotak Securities, said that in the last three trading sessions, the Nifty has rallied over 580 points as investors are placing bullish bets after worries of the US Fed's decision on interest rate hikes dissipated.

He added, "The medium-term trend is still positive and likely to continue in the near future. However, day traders may take a cautious stance near the 17200 resistance level. The 16980 levels would be a sacrosanct support level for the swing traders, and above the same, the uptrend momentum could continue up to 17200."

PayU acquires Billdesk for $4.7 bn; eyes 4 bn transactions annually

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

GLOBAL consumer internet group and technology investor Prosus Ventures (previously Naspers) said on Tuesday that it will acquire Mumbai-based digital payments provider BillDesk for $4.7 billion to bolster its own fintech business under PayU. This will be one of the largest deals in the digital payments space.

"PayU India and BillDesk run complementary businesses within India's digital payment industry. Together, the two expect to create a financial ecosystem handling four billion transactions annually — four times PayU's current level in India," the Amsterdam-based company said in a statement. Prosus expects Payu and BillDesk together will become one of the leading online payment providers globally, handling a total payment volume (TPV) of $147 billion. For the financial year ended March 2021, PayU's TPV rose 51% year-on-year to $55 billion across India, Latin America and the EMEA region.

Together, the two expect to create a financial ecosystem handling four billion transactions annually — four times PayU's current level in India

Prosus Ventures

What makes this deal even more significant is that the over 20-year-old BillDesk is one of the oldest payment gateways in India and powers close to 60% of the country's online bill payments.

It competes with the likes of CCAvenue and Razorpay. Unlike many of its peers, BillDesk had turned profitable long ago. In FY20, BillDesk's operating revenue had increased 28.5% to ₹1,804.7 crore ($245 million) from ₹1,405 crore ($195 million) in FY19. Billdesk generated 65.5% of the top-line through electronic transaction processing fees, which grew 19.8% from ₹993.5 crore ($135 million) in FY19 to ₹1,190.3 crore ($165 million) in FY20. Earning from its loyalty points management platform stood out as the second-largest source of revenue, making up 23% of the collections.

This deal gives an exit to BillDesk's investors that include General Atlantic, Temasek Holdings and Visa.

Govt prioritises shipments to power plants facing shortage

JONATHAN ANANDA @ Chennai

THE Union coal ministry has directed coal suppliers to prioritise shipments to thermal power plants with critically low coal stocks even as several have been forced to shut down after running dry.

"Secretary (Coal) has given specific instructions to the coal companies to give priority supplies to all the TPPs having critical stock level and to focus on stock liquidation from the mines having high stock level. He has further directed that in case of availability issue at linked mines, alternative sources be allocated for smooth running of the plant. The despatches are being aligned with the advisories of Power Ministry," the ministry said.

With economic recovery picking up momentum, India has witnessed high power demand through August. Peak daily power demand averaged around 192-193 MW during the month, but low coal stocks have hit power plants hard.

Data from the Central Electricity Authority (CEA) shows that 74 of the 135 monitored thermal power stations (95,527 MW of capacity) had eight days of coal stock or less as of August 30, with three plants reporting zero days of stock.

While some supplies have been disrupted due to the monsoons, Coal India (CIL) has also begun regulating coal shipments to power plants that have not paid their dues-around ₹17,000 crore at the end of July. As of August 30, CIL had restricted or regulated supply to 11 TPPs due to non-payment of dues, representing 13,295 MW worth of installed capacity.

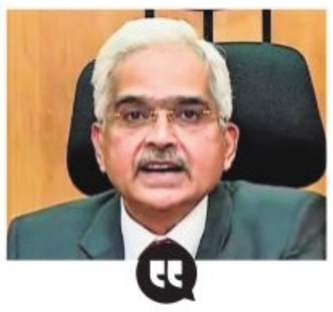
Coal-driven thermal power plants account for over three-quarters of India's electricity production and Coal India supplies over 80% of the coal supplied to the country's TPPs.

Reserve Bank to fine-tune operations to manage one-off liquidity flows: Das

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AS the second wave ebbs, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) now plans to conduct fine-tuning operations to manage unanticipated one-off liquidity flows.

Speaking at the 21st annual conference organised by Fixed Income Money Market and Derivatives Association of India (FIMMDA) and Primary Dealers' Association of India (PDAI), RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das said that the central bank lowered interest rates, expanded its balance sheets through large-scale purchase of government securities (G-sec) and other assets and injecting vast amounts of liquidity into the financial system in response to the devastating Covid-19 pandemic. Now is the time to ensure liquid conditions in the system evolve in an evenly distributed manner.



Yield curve displays kinks, reflecting the liquidity premium commanded by select securities / tenors...We need to develop a yield curve that is liquid across tenors

Shaktikanta Das, RBI Governor

"As markets settle down to regular timings and functioning and liquidity operations normalise, the Reserve Bank will also conduct fine-tuning operations from time to time as needed to manage unanticipated and one-off liquidity flows so that liquid conditions in the system evolve in a balanced and evenly distributed manner," said Das. Variable Rate Reverse Repo (VRRR) auction will remain the main instrument to absorb excess liquidity from the banking system.

He also said that the RBI is working together with the central government to enable international settlement of transactions in government securities (G-sec) through international central securities depositories (ICSDs).

"The yield curve accordingly displays kinks, reflecting the liquidity premium commanded by select securities / tenors. To a certain extent, this is the result of the market microstructure in India, dominated as it is by 'buy and hold' and 'long only' investors. We need to develop a yield curve that is liquid across tenors," Das noted.

LIC completes 65 years

New Delhi: Life Insurance Corporation of India has entered into the 66th year of its existence on Tuesday. Starting with ` 5 crore in 1956, today LIC has an asset base of ` 38,04,610 crore, with Life Fund to the tune of ` 34,36,686 crore. As per a survey report released by Brand Finance Insurance 100, LIC is ranked as the 3rd strongest and 10th most valuable brand in the world, the company said. Despite two decades of opening up of the insurance sector, the Corporation continues to be a market leader by holding majority of market share viz 66.18% in first year premium income and 74.58% in the number of policies.

GDP GROWS BY 20%

Economic activity to pick up in 2nd half, say experts

"The devil is in the details and clearly, consumption spending has lagged suggesting that pandemic uncertainties are weighing on their finances and outlook. With risks looming over pent-up demand, the biggest driver of growth may take a while to take off," said Rumki Majumdar, economist, Deloitte India, adding that the GDP growth will be better in the second half of the current fiscal.

"We expect economic activity to pick up rapidly in the second half. The pace of the recovery may get pushed by a couple of quarters and flow into the next fiscal year and growth may be robust at above 8%, provided we can keep the infection numbers under control. Even if we experience successive waves, they are likely to have a diminishing economic impact, aiding in the pent-up demand accelerating," she added.

Briefing the media, Chief Economic Adviser Krishnamurthy Subramanian said the GDP data show that the economy is on the path to recovery, claiming that full-year GDP growth is likely to be around 11% mainly on account of what he called 'structural reforms'. "While the health impact of the second wave was significant, the impact on the economy has not been severe," Subramanian said adding the impact of the third wave will not be severe thanks to the fast-paced vaccination drive.

Chip shortage: Maruti's Sept output to be 60% less

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

OWING to a supply constraint of electronic components due to the shortage of semiconductors, India's largest carmaker Maruti Suzuki said on Tuesday that its production in September could be around only 40% of the usual output.

"The Company is expecting an adverse impact on vehicle production in the month of September in both Haryana and its contract manufacturing company, Suzuki Motor Gujarat Pvt. Ltd. (SMG) in Gujarat. Though the situation is quite dynamic, it is currently estimated that the total vehicle production volume across both locations could be around 40% of normal production," the carmaker said in a regulatory filing on Tuesday.

Maruti Suzuki's production ability in India is around 22.5 lakh units per annum, translating to 1.87 lakh units per month. A 40% production means MSIL would be able to produce only about 75,000 vehicles in September.

This fall will have a big impact on company's revenue and India's cumulative PV sales. As for consumers, this means more waiting period for models such as Baleno, Swift, Dzire and Brezza.

Mitul Shah, head of Research (Institutional Equity) at Reliance Securities, said that Maruti Suzuki's production coming down to 40% of normal level in Sep '21 would certainly impact festive sales as already most of the models are on wait list.

"This may lead to marginal drop of 3-4% YoY in company's 2QFY22 sales volume, despite lower base. MSIL being market leader with around 50% market share, its subdued sales performance would also impact performance of entire PV industry in Q2 of FY22. Price hike would support company to record flat revenue on YoY basis in the quarter despite likely decline in volumes," Shah told TNIE.

Last week, MSIL chairman RC Bhargava had said that the semiconductor shortage problem is expected to be over by 2022.

Trai asks govt to fix AGR issues for cable ops

New Delhi: Telecom regulator Trai on Tuesday recommended a slew of measures, including fixing minimum broadband speed at 2 megabit per second, to promote internet connectivity and increase connection speed. The regulator also recommended adoption of adjusted gross revenue as defined by it earlier to bring cable TV operators in the plan. "To address this issue, the Authority has already given its recommendations to the government," Trai recommended.

Purti Gas evokes overwhelming response

Nagpur: Providing an opportunity to the young entrepreneurs and existing business owners to set up an auto LPG dispensing station in their area, Purti Gas has proved to be a quick taker in South India. The leading LPG brand owned by Manas Agro Industries & Infrastructure, a company having an extensive outreach in 11 states and fast progressing into expanding its coverage, has opened up for appointing Dealer Owned Dealer Operated (DODO) Auto LPG Station. Purti Gas is now functioning in Tamil Nadu as well.

Icra: Airlines to see loss of ₹25,000-26,000 cr in FY22

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIAN aviation industry is expected to report a net loss of ₹25,000-26,000 crore in FY22 on account of Covid-19 disruptions, regulatory fare-caps and significant increase in jet fuel (ATF) prices, rating agency Icra said on Tuesday.

"Given the resurgence of the second wave of the pandemic, the recovery in passenger traffic will only be gradual, with the domestic passenger traffic expected to reach pre-Covid levels only by FY24. Elevated ATF prices (higher by 71% on Y-o-Y basis in 5M FY22) and fare caps continue to pose a challenge for the profitability of the airlines. Thus, the Indian aviation industry is expected to report a net loss of ₹250-260 billion in FY22," said Kinjal Shah, Vice President and Co-Group Head, Icra.

Shah added that the debt levels for airlines will remain high and are estimated to increase to ₹120,000 crore (including lease liabilities) in FY22, with the industry requiring an additional funding of ₹45,000-47,000 crore of over FY22 to FY24.

The government in response to a question in the parliament last month had said, airlines in India (excluding SpiceJet) suffered cumulative losses of ₹15,086.3 crore in FY21. Air India (loss of ₹4,700 crore) and IndiGo (₹5,829.7 crore) were the worst-hit airlines. Vistara incurred a loss ₹1,609.7 crore while AirAsia lost ₹1,396.0 crore last year. IPO-bound Go Air's losses stood at ₹1,333.5 crore. Later, SpiceJet reported a net loss of ₹998.3 crore for 2020-21 fiscal. Indian carriers suffered a loss of ₹5,497.24 crore in FY 2019-20 and ₹6,709.43 crore in FY 2018-19.

The aviation industry is expected to witness a strong Y-o-Y growth of 45-50% in domestic air passenger traffic and 80-85% in international air passenger traffic during FY22, albeit on a lower base of FY21 and driven by the faster pace of vaccination and gradual relaxations in restrictions.

REC to seek nod for ₹85,000-cr fundraise

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

STATE-RUN power sector financier REC Ltd will seek the approval of its shareholders for a proposal to raise ₹85,000 crore through an issue of non-convertible bonds or debentures at its annual general meeting to be held on September 24.

According to the company, these funds will be raised on a private placement basis in one or more tranches over a period of one year.

The amount to be raised will be within the overall revised borrowing limit that is being proposed for approval by shareholders, it added.

REC has also proposed alterations to its Memorandum of Association in order to explore funding opportunities in other areas outside the power sector, such as infrastructure projects such as road, railways, ports, bridges, and gas pipelines.

It would also enable it to finance projects in energy conservation, waste heat recovery systems, e-mobility and associated infrastructure.

At ₹157 lakh cr, loan market grows by 100% during FY17-FY21

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

INDIA'S loan market has seen an aggressive 100% growth from FY17-FY21 at ₹156.9 lakh crore, according to a report titled' How India lends' by CRIF High Mark, leading Indian credit bureau.

The report stated that the small-ticket personal loans (with size less than ₹1 lakh) has led the growth in the loans portfolio which saw a 49% share from the retail and commercial borrowers. Although the number of active retail loans has grown 2x , there has been a flat growth in the average balance of the borrowers, indicating uptick in small-ticket loans. Over the last five years, retail, micro lending and commercial lending portfolios have witnessed an increase by 91%, 157% and 93%, respectively.

When it came to retail borrowers, almost all product categories, including personal loans, home loans, auto loans, credit card originations, consumer durable loans saw an expansion in volume even if the average ticket-size of each type of borrowing was uneven. The retail loans portfolio as of March, 2021 stood at ₹77.5 lakh crore, a 91% growth since March, 2017.

Small-ticket loans (less than ₹1 lakh) constituted 50% of the personal loans portfolio , dominated byNBFCs. Overall, personal loans witnessed 2.3x growth in value terms from FY17-FY20 and 3.8X growth in volume. Credit card issuance hit a 80% q-o-q drop in Q1 FY21, however, the number of new cards surpassed pre-Covid levels by Q4 FY21. Credit Cards have total balances of ₹173,9000 cr and 608.89 lakh cards are in circulation as of Mar'21, with 11.6% Y-o-Y growth by value and 13.5% by volume, the report said.

Steyn calls it a day after illustrious career

Resembling a work of art when in full flight with his wicked swing and toe-crushing yorkers, all-time pace great Dale Steyn on Tuesday announced retirement from cricket with an impeccable record and a legacy to boot. The 38-year-old South African made the announcement on Twitter, ending a 17-year career, which saw him play in 93 Tests, 125 ODIs and 47 T20Is.

REAL LIFE BLOCKBUSTER

Tamil Nadu's Mariyappan wins silver in men's high jump T63 event; Sharad claims bronze

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

FIFTEEN minutes into 2017, Shah Rukh Khan took to Twitter to promote the first look poster of 'Mariyappan', a movie based on the life of Thangavelu Mariyappan, who had won a Paralympics gold in Rio de Janeiro. The movie's tagline hit home the athlete's belief and spirit. "The world may think you can't," it said. "What you think is what matters".

This mantra has fuelled Mariyappan and his mother, Saroja, for pretty much their entire adult life including when he lay on a pool of his own blood at a government hospital near Salem when he was five. He had suffered an accident and the doctors had informed Saroja that they would have to remove his leg.

Saroja, guided by blind belief, won that argument. That belief, it's fair to say, was vindicated when Mariyappan won the T42 high jump event in Brazil. In Tokyo, Mariyappan kept up the pre Paralympics predictions by medalling — a silver — in the T63 discipline.

What makes this silver that bit more special is the circumstances the TN athlete, who hails from a village near Salem, found himself in a day before the start of the Paralympics. As he was deemed to be in touch with a close contact of somebody who had tested positive for Covid-19, he was asked to isolate.

That meant he also couldn't be the flagbearer for the Opening Ceremony. Even though he was crushed (he wanted that honour), he motivated himself by keeping up his training and fitness routine in his hotel room. There was, he knew, no time to sulk when there was an event to be won.

He could have actually won gold in the event. With the bar at 1.88m, USA's Sam Grewe needed to nail his third and final attempt. Otherwise, Mariyappan was walking away with gold on the countback rule. Grewe, who holds the world record with a jump of 1.90m in this event in 2019, just about cleared the height. The disappointment, when the camera panned to Mariyappan's face, was writ large. The conditions — rain and a slippery track — did not make it any easier. As he doesn't have prosthetics on his right leg, his sock got wet which eventually affected his take off. It's a point he made in the post-event press conference.

High jumper T Mariyappan with coach Satyanarayana on Tuesday

He also promised to go for gold in Paris in 2024. When you take into consideration his time since 2016 has been a rocky ride, he's done well to refocus. In 2017, he was questioned following the death of a 19-year-old in Salem. He was questioned and cleared. Following that, he had a troublesome ankle injury before getting back into form with a bronze at the Worlds in 2019.

Incidentally, at the Worlds in 2019, compatriot Sharad Kumar finished above him on the podium. This year, Kumar finished in third place making it the second time in two successive editions where Indians have won two medals in this event (in 2016, Varun Bhati won bronze).

Para shooter Singhraj wins bronze medal

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

WHEN the pandemic struck last year, India's para shooter Singhraj Adhana could not sleep. His Paralympic preparations had come to a standstill. The man from Bahadurgarh, Haryana, spoke to athletes from other countries who informed him that their training had not halted. This made him more worried. He was restless with no practice for some months. It was when his coaches suggested an idea of building a shooting range. He immediately chalked out a design overnight.

Around June, when restrictions gradually eased, the para shooter got a team of workers and started working on the plan. In around five months, they had come up with a shooting range at his home. However, it was not an easy job to convince his parents.

"I informed my family members that I wanted to make a range at home, and they were initially angry as the cost would run into lakhs. I told them I was not able to sleep and the Paralympics was also coming up," he said in a virtual press conference. "My family finally agreed to it, but told me that I should spend the money such that they should also be able to feed the family (for the future) as there was lockdown also. So I made a 10m and 50m range at home. NRAI (National Rifle Association of India) and PCI (Paralympics Committee of India) cooperated with me a lot and they also gave the permission to make the range so managed to make an international standard one. Because of which I was able to come here and deliver."

All his dedication and hours of practice came to fruition on Tuesday. Singhraj managed to take home the bronze medal in the P1 men's 10m air pistol SH1 event with a total score of 216.8 at the Asaka Shooting Range in Tokyo. All eyes were on him in the final after Manish Narwal, who had topped the qualification stage, bowed out earlier than expected. But Singhraj showed great character to win a medal. "I am very happy with it, but my coaches and me had a dream of winning the gold medal, that is incomplete, but I am happy." said Singhraj, who is afflicted with polio. What makes this feat even more special is the fact that the 39-year-old only got into the sport four years ago, that too by chance. Once he accompanied his nephew to a shooting range, and as coaches were passing instruction to the shooters at the venue, Singhraj began laughing.

Why? Because, he thought it was very easy. The coaches were amused at the time, and asked him to hit a few shots at the range. Despite shooting for the first time, he impressed as he hit the inner black four of the five shots and also hit a couple of 10s. "They (coaches) were very happy with my shots and asked if I had done shooting earlier. I said no. They motivated me and told that there is para shooting, the government also supports and you can do something for the country. I had done some social work also, but I was not satisfied. After coming to shooting, I came to know this is a great thing to do for my country. After which, I gave it all in the sport," added Singhraj.

BCCI invites bids for 2 new IPL teams

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

THE Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) formally opened the door for the Indian Premier League (IPL) to be expanded to a 10-team affair from the 2022 edition by inviting bids for two new franchises. The invitation to tender (ITT) will be available till October 5 and it is understood that the new owners will be announced once the current season ends on October 15.

The statement issued by the BCCI didn't reveal any details with regards to the minimum purchase bid for a franchise. However, having sold the Pune franchise to Sahara in 2010 for Rs 1,700 crore, market analysts believe the minimum bid will at least match the sum if not more. Similarly, the BCCI hasn't revealed whether the bids will be submitted via sealed envelopes or by e-auction.

Market analysts expect the base price to be at least around Rs 2,000 crore, which is around 15 per cent more than Pune's winning bid. It is not a significant rise given that 11 years have passed and the fact that the tournament has placed itself on the global stage as the most-watched event. Among the cities that are expected to be available for bidding include Ahmedabad, Lucknow, Pune, Guwahati, Dehradun and Kochi. With Ahmedabad positioning itself as among the venues that can't be ignored given that the city has the biggest cricket stadium in the world, it is expected to witness heavy bidding alongside Pune and Lucknow. Interested bidders are allowed to pick up more than one ITT and can submit bids for two cities.

With competition expected to be severe for those three cities, the others could also come into equation should an interested bidder be smart and alert to developments.

Osaka advances to 2nd round, Murray ousted

AFP @New York

DEFENDING champion Naomi Osaka stretched her Grand Slam win streak to 16 matches on Monday at the US Open while Greek third seed Stefanos Tsitsipas struggled past Andy Murray in five sets.

Osaka, seeking her third US Open crown in four years, defeated 87th-ranked Czech Marie Bouzkova 6-4, 6-1 at a packed Arthur Ashe Stadium to book a second-round matchup with Serbian qualifier Olga Danilovic.

"It feels kind of crazy to play in front of everyone again," Osaka said. "I feel really comfortable here. I'm just glad I won."

Osaka beat Bouzkova in their only prior meeting in the first round of this year's Australian Open on the way to her fourth Grand Slam title.

The 23-year-old Japanese star could become the first back-to-back US Open women's champion since Serena Williams, out this year with a torn hamstring, won her third in a row in 2014.

Osaka's major win streak includes her most recent US and Australian Open wins and a first-round win at this year's French Open before withdrawing over mental health issues.

Bajrang by her side, Sangeeta makes Worlds cut

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

WRESTLER Sangeeta Phogat wanted to compete in the trials held to pick Indian team for the Asian Olympic Qualifier earlier this year. She put the plan on hold after consulting husband Bajrang Punia. The reason was she hasn't regained complete fitness after undergoing surgeries in both her knees.

Five months later, she finally took the mat at the IG Stadium in New Delhi for selection trials held on Tuesday to pick the national team for the World Championships. The wait paid reward as she registered comprehensive victories to book her slot for the worlds scheduled in Oslo, Norway from October 2 to 10. "She wanted to compete in 57kg trials then to check if she can make an Olympic cut. However, we decided to wait a bit longer as she wasn't completely fit. A loss there could have demoralised her as it's always difficult to make a comeback after a long hiatus. She competed last in 2018 so we don't want to take any chance," Bajrang, the Tokyo Olympics bronze medallist, who was at Sangeeta's coach corner, told this daily.

The youngest among Phogat sisters, Sangeeta last competed in 59kg in the Asian Championships in 2018. However, she changed the weight category on her return. "Competing in an Olympic weight division makes sense," said Bajrang. Sangeeta now wants to focus on the upcoming event before preparing for the big events like Commonwealth Games and Asian Games next year. "We train together and his (Bajrang) tips proved useful," said Sangeeta, who beat Sanju Devi by technical superiority before overpowering Manisha 9-5 in the final. Manisha had earlier knocked out 2016 Rio bronze medallist Sakshi Malik. While Sangeeta bossed in her category, her cousin Vinesh Phogat withdrew from second bout on medical ground. Competing in 55kg, she won 5-0 against Anju but didn't turn up for the second bout against Pinki, who qualified for the worlds. Trials in a few weight categories (63kg/GR, 82kg/GR, 92kg/FS and 76kg/WW) will be held next week as only one wrestler turned up in each division.

Private sponsors' details

As was instructed while announcing the date for trials, the Wrestling Federation of India asked wrestlers to submit details of their contracts with private sponsors before taking part in trials. With none of the wrestlers possessing the sought details, the WFI asked them to sign an undertaking each that they will submit later.

S Korea bans monopolies in app store payments

Apple and Google now can't force developers to use their systems

South Korea's lawmakers attend a plenary session at the National Assembly | PTI

TECHNOLOGY

SEOUL: South Korean MPs on Tuesday passed a law banning Apple and Google from forcing app developers to use the tech giants' payment systems, effectively declaring their lucrative App Store and Play Store monopolies illegal.

The bill was approved by 180 votes to nil in the National Assembly, making South Korea the first major economy to pass legislation on the issue, in a move that could set a precedent for other jurisdictions around the world.

In the United States three senators this month introduced a bill to loosen the tech firms' grip on their stores, while in Europe lawmakers are debating legislation that could force Apple to bring in alternatives to the App Store.

The South Korean measure comes as Apple and Google face global criticism for charging up to 30% commission on app sales and requiring their own payment systems be used that collect a share of the transactions.

The Korean law -- locally dubbed the "Anti-Google Law" -- will offer users a choice of app payment providers, allowing them to bypass charges set by the store owner.

New precedent

"This law will certainly set a precedent for other countries, as well as app developers and content creators worldwide," Kang Ki-hwan at the Korea Mobile Internet Business Association told AFP.

It is expected to come into force in September, according to reports.

Later this year Google plans to enforce globally a requirement for developers to use its payment system – with its 30 % commission above a certain threshold -- for in-app purchases.

In South Korea, it is also planning to charge commission on all content payments from October, ending an exemption where commissions were only payable for online games.

'Power abuse'

That announcement prompted an angry response from South Korean artists and creators, with web fiction writers and toon artists accusing Google of "power abuse" and campaigning fiercely for the new law.

"Without this law, our working environment – where creators are guaranteed of full rewards for their efforts – would've been destroyed," Seo Bum-gang, a webtoon artist who heads the Korea Webtoon Industry Association, told AFP.

"We need this law to protect the diversity of our industry, where artists and creators of all economic backgrounds can share their content without having to worry about the commission fees."

Apple and Google have maintained that commissions charged are standard in the industry and fair compensation for building safe marketplaces where developers can reach people around the world.

Ahead of the debate, Apple told AFP that it would put digital purchasers at risk of fraud, undermine their privacy protection and render parental controls less effective.

"We believe user trust in App Store purchases will decrease as a result of this proposal --leading to fewer opportunities for the over 482,000 registered developers in Korea who have earned more than 8.55 trillion won to date with Apple," it said in a statement.

The two tech giants dominate the online app market in South Korea, the world's 12th largest economy known for its technological prowess. Google's Play Store made revenue of almost 6 trillion won ($5.2 billion) in 2019, accounting for 63% of the country's total. Apple's App Store had a 24.4% share of total app store sales in the country in the same year.

MIGRATORY SPECIES MOST AFFECTED BY PLASTIC POLLUTION

From endangered freshwater dolphins drowned by discarded fishing nets to elephants scavenging through rubbish, migratory species are among the most vulnerable to plastic pollution, a United Nations report on the Asia-Pacific region said on Tuesday, calling for greater action to cut waste, especially in the Ganga

TIMELY WARNING

The report comes just days ahead of a major summit of the International Union for the Conservation of Nature (IUCN), which will include a motion calling for an end to marine plastic pollution by 2030

53 million

tonnes of plastic will be introduced to the global environment annually by 2030

2,00,000

The UN report highlights two regions — the Ganges and Mekong river basins — which together contribute an estimated 2,00,000 tonnes of plastic pollution to the Indian Ocean and the Pacific Ocean every year

Actions to address this global issue have fallen far short of what is needed. The focus has thus far been on clean up in our oceans, but that is already too late in the process. We need to focus on solutions and prevention of plastic pollution upstream

PLASTIC WORLD

Plastic particles have infiltrated even the most remote regions, with tiny fragments discovered inside fish in the deepest parts of the ocean and in Arctic ice

The river is of tremendous symbolic and religious value to Hindus on the subcontinent, yet it is one of largest carriers of plastic to the world's oceans. For the species that live in the river, discarded fishing gear were found to be major threats. Dolphins can become entangled and trapped under water by old nets

Condition of Russia's ISS segment sparks safety concern

SPACE

MOSCOW: A Russian space official on Tuesday raised concerns about the deteriorating state of Russia's segment of the International Space Station due to out-of-date hardware, warning it could lead to "irreparable failures".

In recent years, the Russian segment of the ISS has experienced a string of problems, including air leaks caused by cracks, raising questions about the safety of the rotating crews onboard.

"Around 80 percent of the in-flight systems on Russia's segment have reached the end of their service period," Vladimir Solovyov, chief engineer of the Energia rocket and space corporation, told the RIA Novosti news agency. Energia — a manufacturer of spacecraft and space station components — is the leading developer of Russia's section of the ISS.

"This means that literally a day after the systems are fully exhausted, irreparable failures may begin," Solovyov added.

Citing concerns stemming from ageing hardware, Russia had indicated that it plans to leave the ISS after 2025 and launch its own orbital station.

On Monday, Solovyov said that small cracks had been discovered on Russia's Zarya cargo module. Launched in 1998, it is one of the oldest modules of the ISS. The Russian Zvezda service module meanwhile has experienced several air leaks, including last month and in the year 2019.

Also in July, the entire ISS tilted out of orbit after the thrusters of a new Russian module reignited several hours after docking took place.

1/3rd birds of prey in decline globally

CONSERVATION

WASHINGTON: Despite a few high-profile conservation success stories – like the comeback of bald eagle populations in North America – birds of prey are in decline worldwide.

A new analysis of data from the International Union for the Conservation of Nature and BirdLife International found that 30% of 557 raptor species worldwide are considered near threatened, vulnerable or endangered or critically endangered. Eighteen species are critically endangered, including the Philippine eagle, the hooded vulture and the Annobon scops owl.

Other species are in danger of becoming locally extinct in specific regions, meaning they may no longer play critical roles as top predators, said Gerardo Ceballos, a bird scientist and a co-author of the study published Monday in the journal Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

"The golden eagle is the national bird of Mexico, but we have very few golden eagles left in Mexico," he said. A 2016 census estimated only about 100 breeding pairs remain in the country. Harpy eagles were once widespread throughout southern Mexico and Central and South America, but tree cutting and burning has dramatically shrunk their range.

Of threatened birds of prey that are active mostly during the day — including most hawks, eagles and vultures — 54% were falling in population, the study found. The same was true for 47% of threatened nocturnal raptors, such as owls.

That means "the factors causing the decline have not been remedied" and those species need immediate attention, said Jeff Johnson, from the University of North Texas, who was not involved in the study.

Globally, the biggest threats to these birds are habitat loss, climate change and toxic substances, said Evan Buechley, a research associate at the Smithsonian Migratory Bird Center.

B'desh vax scientist gets Magsaysay award

MEDICINE

MANILA: A Bangladeshi scientist who helped develop a cheap oral vaccine against cholera, a Pakistani microfinance pioneer and a Filipino fisherman were among Tuesday's winners of Asia's equivalent to the Nobel Prize.

Firdausi Qadri, 70, was one of five recipients of the Ramon Magsaysay Award for her "life-long devotion to the scientific profession" and "untiring contributions to vaccine development".

Working at the International Centre for Diarrhoeal Disease Research in Bangladesh's capital Dhaka, Qadri had a "key role" in creating more affordable vaccines to combat cholera and typhoid, the Manila-based award foundation said in a statement.

Qadri was also cited for her leading role in a mass vaccination effort in Rohingya refugee camps in Bangladesh's southeastern district of Cox's Bazar in recent years that prevented a cholera outbreak.

Potential HIV jab fails in trial

HEALTH

A potential HIV vaccine being developed by Johnson & Johnson did not provide protection against the virus in a mid-stage study, the drugmaker said. J&J plans to end that study, which involved young women in sub-Saharan Africa. But researchers will continue a separate, late-stage trial involving a different composition of the vaccine in men and transgender people. The study in sub-Saharan Africa involved about 2,600 women who were deemed to be at high risk of acquiring HIV, which causes AIDS. Researchers found that the vaccine was only 25% effective at preventing HIV. J&J said its other study of the potential vaccine is being conducted in Europe and the Americas, where different strains of HIV are circulating.

Court orders ivermectin use

MEDICINE

A US woman has won a court order for a hospital in Ohio to treat her husband, who is on a ventilator with Covid-19, with the antiparasitic medicine ivermectin, as demand surges for the unproven coronavirus treatment. The case is one of several across the US where courts have sided with litigants seeking to use the drug, despite scant evidence of its effectiveness against Covid and a rise in calls to poison centers as a result of misuse, including ingesting livestock-strength formulations. Judge Gregory Howard ordered West Chester Hospital, outside Cincinnati, to treat Julie Smith's husband with ivermectin. Smith's doctor is part of an advocacy group for ivermection.

Self-taught engineer gives African village power with improvised hydro-electric turbine

TECHNOLOGY

MALAWI: Fifteen years ago, when darkness used to fall in Yobe Nkosi, a remote village in northern Malawi, children did their homework by candlelight: there was no electricity.

But that started to change in 2006, when villager Colrerd Nkosi finished secondary school in Mzimba, some 40 kilometres away, and returned home — and found he could no longer live without power.

Aged 23 at the time, Nkosi figured out that a stream gushing past the house where he grew up had enough force to push the pedals on his bicycle.

He created a makeshift dynamo that brought power into his home. Word spread quickly among the cluster of brick houses and neighbours began paying regular visits to charge their mobile phones.

"I started getting requests for electricity (and) decided to upgrade," said Nkosi, now 38.

Hydro power

With no prior training, he turned an old fridge compressor into a water-powered turbine and put it in a nearby river, generating electricity for six households.

Today, the village is supplied by a bigger turbine, built from the motor of a disused maize sheller — a machine that skims kernels of corn off the cob.

The gadget has been set up on the village outskirts. The power is carried along metal cables strung from a two-kilometre line of tree trunks topped with wooden planks.

Once more villages and schools have electricity... people will no longer cut down trees (for) charcoal

Colrerd Nkosi

The users pay no fee for the power but give Nkosi some money for maintenance —slightly more than $1.00 per household per month.

"The electricity is basically free," Nkosi said, speaking in local Chichewa.

He admitted that the maintenance income was too small to cover repair costs, which he mainly funded from his own pocket. Despite the challenges, he aims to expand his minigrid to surrounding areas.

"Once more villages and schools have electricity... people will no longer cut down trees (for) charcoal," he said.

Students "will have a lot more time to study," he said.

Only around 11 % of Malawi's 19 mn or so inhabitants have access to electricity, making it one of the world's least electrified countries, according to Sustainable Energy for All, a campaign group backed by the UN.

Just 4 % of the country's rural population is connected to power, compared to 42 %in urban centres.

Lessons in kitchen drumming, ukulele and virtual music tambola... here's how city-based working professionals are unwinding from WFH stress

TUNES OF CHANGE

Picture for representation purposes only

SANATH PRASAD

As work from home (WFH) culture is forcing employees to work for longer hours, the emotional anguish has only soared. The battle against Covid-19 pandemic has taken a toll on people's mental and physical health. Hence, to downplay the side effects of the present situation, such as loneliness, depression or stress, many professionals are turning to music to unwind and de stress from their daily routine.

Coming to their rescue during their low phases are musical trainers who are offering to teach these new music enthusiasts virtually. Music instruments stores in the city are witnessing a surge in demand for instruments like the ukulele, djembe, guitar, mouth organs, drums, that were not very popular during the pre-pandemic times.

Kadence, a music experience store in Bengaluru, is gifting ukuleles to working professionals and music enthusiasts who want to take time off to unwind. The starting price of a ukulele is ₹2,000.

Yash Gupta, entrepreneur-in-residence, Kadence, believes that ukuleles are selling like hot cakes followed by the guitar. "The pandemic gave a heavy blow to many employees causing depression, stress and fear. We are identifying employees in different sectors based on interest in learning the instrument. We have gifted over 30 ukuleles in the last three months, and are also in the process of conducting individual or group sessions to train them in playing the instrument," says Gupta.

Sameet Keshari Pati, an architect and music enthusiast, who started playing the ukulele two months ago, says, "Music is an escape from the daily work stress. When I get a headache or get tense during the work hours, the only getaway is by playing the ukulele. It helps me to calm down," he says.

Aliasger Saiger, an emcee and event facilitator, has been engaging with top multinational companies (MNCs) in the city, conducting music sessions since November 2020. "I organise five online musical events in a week for corporates. This time, we introduced something called 'synchronised stress-buster drumming activities' using the African instrument, the djembe," he says.

Saiger and his team have added a new twist which they call the "kitchen drumming sessions." During these sessions, the musicians use spoons, plates, and bowls which are filled with 25% pulse or water to create uplifting and interesting tunes.

On August 15, the group conducted one of the largest kitchen drumming activities with over 9,000 participants across India, including Jammu and Kashmir.

I organise five online musical events in a week for corporates. Recently, we introduced something called 'synchronised stress-buster drumming activities' using the African instrument, the djembe

Aliasger Saiger, event facilitator

Meanwhile, Satya Prakash Bhatnagar, singer and director of Voice of Bangalore, believes that online engagement through music, especially during the pandemic, urged employees to groove and enjoy music from the comfort of their homes.

"We conducted over 16 musical sessions with Bengaluru-based IT companies. We engaged the employees with antakshari, karaoke, musical tambola and other musical games. Although setting up the virtual platform was difficult in the beginning, we managed to get a hang of it in the next session," says Bhatnagar.

Sidhharth Patwa, the owner of Soundglitz is of the opinion that virtual musical sessions for corporates have picked up after the pandemic with music facilitators and trainers teaching working professionals.

"Djembe is one of the fastest moving instruments and we regularly give 300 djembes to facilitators for musical sessions," Patwa adds.

Dr Bharathi Vishnuvardhan during her younger days

In a film on Padmashree awardee Dr Bharathi Vishnuvardhan, her son-in-law Aniruddha Jatkar brings out the trials and triumphs his mother-in-law faced to make it to the top

A SHARADHAA

A few years ago, actor Aniruddha Jatkar was surprised when a visitor of his mother-in-law, Bharathi Vishnuvardhan, introduced her as the wife of superstar Vishnuvardhan. It was that moment when Aniruddha felt that Bharathi was a superstar in her own right. Baale Bangara, a documentary by Keerthi Innovations, captures the life and times of Padmashree awardee Dr Bharathi Vishnuvardhan.

Conceptualised, written, and directed by Aniruddha, the two-and-a-half hour long film captures Bharathi's journey from school, college, films, marriage, life struggles, among a host of other things. "When Amma married my father-in-law, she was already a superstar, having made a mark in five languages. In that context, Vishnuvardhan was relatively a new actor. I want to bring out her valuable contribution to the industry as an actor," he says.

Baale Bangara is more of an interview-based documentary, and more or less is a feature film which took three years to complete. He watched over 110 films of Bharathi and did hours-long interviews with the Padmashree awardee to make this documentary. "I approached Amma and expressed my thoughts of making a documentary on her. Even though she has acted in several films, I chose to watch only 110 movies of hers. I jotted down points, and made notes. The five-and-a-half hour interview was compressed into a two-and-a-half hour documentary, comprising clippings, songs, and photographs. Apart from her contribution to entertainment, the film also includes her lifestyle, her fondness for jewellery, and her bonding with peers," says Aniruddha.

The documentary is meant to be inspirational with several of her struggles having been captured. "My father-in-law too faced struggles and didn't become 'Sahasa Simha' overnight. Both of them faced many hurdles. There was a time when both of them survived only on only porridge for six months. The reason: even as superstars their films had flopped. The notion about stardom is that it is a happy life, but reality is different," he says, adding that the struggle a star goes through is the most difficult thing to handle. "I am planning to bring Baale Bangara onto OTT platforms, and talks are on with various streaming channels. I consider Baale Bangara an entertainment documentary. While this show will throw light on her works to today's youngsters, it will create a sense of nostalgia for the older generation," he says.

Making of a superstar

Inspired by the popular Kanjivaram weaves of Tamil Nadu, Bengaluru-based Madhumita Mani has created Ettana: The Looms of Kanchi

Games people play

ANILA KURIAN

To be interested in board games is one thing, but to find it so intriguing that you want to make your own game, is another. Madhumita Mani belongs to the latter category. A homemaker and resident of Zurich, Switzerland, Mani found an interest in board games in 2015, when she travelled to the US where her friends introduced her to Catan, a multiplayer board game where players take on the role of settlers while attempting to build and develop holdings. She was taken aback to know that games such as Catan also exists. When the pandemic locked everyone indoors, Mani took up the challenge of coming up with her own game. And Ettana: The Looms of Kanchi was born. Growing up in different parts of India exposed Mani to different cultures and textiles.

Taking inspiration from her Tamil roots, the founder of Mad4Fun Games, reflects a part of her cultural identity. "I moved to Zurich eight years ago, but the company is run from Bengaluru - my father, Ramamoorthy Mani, is the CEO. The idea is to depict the workings of a loom through a board game. It shows how weavers come up with designs that are special which are unique only to their region," she says.

It took her a couple of months to finalise the game idea, but she's focussed on replicating certain patterns on the board with the roll of a dice and cards. Mani says, "There are 36 different designs and the first player who manages to create a pattern that's worth eight annas (currency), wins the game." An anna which is equivalent to 6.25 paise was the currency used in British India.

From eco-friendly packaging, peacock blue-hued colour scheme to using traditional motifs of dancing girls on the cover and Bharatanatyam mudras, Mani has tried to keep the concept of the game as close to home as possible. "We worked with Channapatna toy makers to create this game. Even the satchels we've used are bought from Kanchipuram weaves. I wanted to include as much as possible to showcase that it's made in India, and perhaps, teach a thing or two about our culture to others," Mani says.

And she's just right because her customer base pans out to the US and Europe. She says, "About 60 per cent of our buyers right now are from the US and they aren't even Indians. Perhaps it's the colour and the way the game is played that people have been interested in buying the game especially during the pandemic." All this was possible with the help of her designer, Darshini Sundar, who has experience working in textiles. Mani points out, "All components of the game were illustrated as they were inspired by the handlooms and temple sculptures found in Kanchipuram."

HOW TO PLAY

It's a 2-4 player game that takes 45 minutes to complete. The crux of the game is to recreate the pattern seen on the card onto the board with economical moves. With each pattern completed, the player earns 'annas' or points. Some patterns are more complicated than others, earning the player more 'annas'. The first player to get 8 victory points is the winner. The game, priced at ₹ 2,900, can be purchased on Mad4fungames.com

FIT BIT

PARSVA UTTANASANA

(SIDE INTENSE STRETCH)

In Sanskrit, parsva means 'side', ut means 'intense', tan means 'extend, stretch or lengthen' and asana means 'pose.' Hence the name Intense Side Stretch Pose. This posture is performed in a standing position and when practiced regularly, brings stability and balance to the body and the mind. The mind should be at the core while practicing this intense pose. It is sometimes called the Pyramid Pose, which emphasizes the powerful foundation and strength engendered in this pose.

STEPS

- Stand in front of the mat, your feet should be at a distance from the front edge of the mat.
- Take your right leg back 3-4 feet apart.
- Turn your back foot 45 degrees in, bring your right hip slightly forward.
- Bend your back slightly and rotate in.
- Inhale, lift your sternum up. Put your shoulder out, place your palms outside the foot.
- Activate your fingers and press while lifting the chest up. Exhale, bend forward.
- Knee should be slightly bent (if hyperextended), activate your back leg.
- Then, bring the thigh inward, hip square.
- Keep back foot 45 degrees in, heels aligned (if you are an advanced practitioner).
- Keep chest open, navel aligned with the centre of the front thigh.
- Relax your shoulders, and palm next to your feet.
- As you hold the posture for 2-3 minutes, inhale, straighten your elbow and lift your chest up, lower back in, release the hamstring.
- Then, with exhalation slowly release the posture.

BENEFITS

- Regular practice of this asana stretches hamstring, calves, spine and hips.
- Helps to calm the mind and relieves stress.
- It is considered to be good for the digestive system.
- Regular practice keeps blood pressure in check, and helps in case of insomnia, too.
- It is more beneficial for soothing the nerve of the back.

LIMITATIONS

- If you are suffering from slip disc, diarrhea, headache or sacroiliac joint pain, you have to get the advice of a yoga expert before doing this asana.
- People who have any back issue, knee ligament injury, low blood pressure, should avoid performing this pose.

'THE TRUTH IS, THE QUEEN IS WHOLLY PREDICTABLE'

IN March 2004, on the day, as it happened, of the funeral of the late Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, Queen Elizabeth II hosted a private party in London to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of her Coronation.The party took place a year later than originally planned. It had to be postponed from 2003 because of the war on Iraq. The Duke of Edinburgh attended the party, of course, but he arrived a little later than scheduled - not on account of his age (he was then eighty-two), but because he had spent the day in The Hague, on duty, representing the United Kingdom at Queen Juliana's funeral.

Queen Juliana was an interesting woman. She reigned from 1948 until 1980, when she abdicated in favour of her eldest daughter, Crown Princess Beatrix, who, in due course, in April 2013, abdicated in favour of her son, Crown Prince Willem-Alexander. In her day Juliana was Europe's richest reigning monarch, but she eschewed pomp and ceremony, and abolished the curtsy, among other court formalities. She was kindly, deeply religious, devoted to her four daughters and her people (in that order), and married, for sixty-seven years, to Prince Bernhard, a German princeling whose way with women and money did him little credit and, on more than one occasion, came close to toppling the Orange throne.

Bernhard and Juliana each had their foibles. In 1956, for example, it came to light that, for the previous eight years, the Dutch Queen had been relying heavily on the spiritual services of a faith healer named Greet Hofmans. Hofmans, apparently, used her position to obtain posts at the palace for her friends and tried to influence government policy. She also persuaded the Queen to move from her quarters 'because the earth waves were not right'. In 1959 the Queen and the Prince invited a self-styled American 'professor' (and former hamburger vendor) named George Adamski to visit them privately to report on what he described as his flight around the moon in a spaceship from Venus. More seriously, in 1976, Prince Bernhard was accused of soliciting money from the Lockheed Corporation of America and found - by the official inquiry into the case - to be a man 'open to dishonourable requests and offers'.

We have had none of these embarrassments with Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh. I wonder if we appreciate how fortunate we have been. Elizabeth II is neither eccentric nor quixotic, and her husband was as honest and straightforward as the day is long.

If there is one word that sums up Elizabeth II, it is 'dutiful'. Her life has been driven by duty. She was a dutiful daughter. She has been a dutiful Queen. Because I have met her - because, at close quarters, I have observed her as she carried out a range of her official duties - people sometimes ask me, leaning forward, narrowing their eyes, 'What's the Queen really like?' My answer disappoints them. 'She's seems very nice,' I say. 'Rather normal, actually; quite straightforward; much as you'd expect, in fact.'

The truth is, the Queen is wholly predictable. On 30 April 2002, in Westminster Hall, I watched her as she addressed the joint Houses of Parliament on the occasion of her Golden Jubilee. In the outfit you would expect (peacock blue, matching hat, smashing pearls, lovely brooch, black gloves, spectacles firmly in place), in the voice you recognise (Gainsborough Studios, circa 1947), she said all the things you knew that she would say. The speech - brief, balanced, well phrased - reflected both the moderate and modest nature of the monarch, and the decent, enduring values she holds dear. As she concluded with her pledge to continue to serve her country in the years to come, the journalists sitting around me twitched with excitement. 'She's staying,' hissed one. 'That's our story,' whispered another.

Advantages of being ordinary looking

LIFE is slightly easier for good looking people. You can see signs of this in one's early childhood. Whether it is in the manner that people coddle and play with children who are cuter. Or the phenomenon of bullying in school — if you're short, fat, or average looking — you are going to be criticised by your classmates and bullied at school.

The teen years aren't very different — the good looking people all get into relationships first. If you're the average looking person, it requires greater effort from you. While the others seem to be waltzing into relationships with ease, you will have to deal with stubborn acne, revolutionary barbers, and clothes with minds of their own. With the world constantly peddling you images and videos of good looking people smiling and jiving at you, it is a constant battle — like a twisted version of Darwin's 'Survival of the Ugliest'.

Yours Truly is a genuinely average looking person. I have never been a good looking person, or a cute kid, or a bubbly teenager. I was the guy who built a wall of humour to deal with the bullying and often used a sharp tongue to give it back. I am the opposite of photogenic if there is any such phrase.

But I do not have a problem with being average looking per se. We get our looks from our parents, and I have met people from both sides of my family. While the relatives on my mother's side are decent looking, those on my father's are barely homo sapiens!

In my 30s, I realise that there are advantages in being average looking. Not a lot of them, but advantages nonetheless. Firstly, nobody is trying to hook up with you all the time. Can you imagine the trauma that good looking people have to go through? The need to constantly throw people off their backs. The tragic realisation that every interaction is laced with the subtext of wanting to know you better. That people are constantly trying to get into your pants. One can imagine it must be extremely laborious.

Writer, comedian

Secondly, as an average looking person, you know that the people who are interacting with you aren't doing it out of some twisted, ulterior motive. You know that your friends genuinely like hanging out with you. That they will stick with you through thick and thin; that they did not gravitate towards you due to some shaky notions of beauty and good looks.

But perhaps the greatest truth of all — is old age and death. That we are all going to get ugly, wrinkly and old one day. As an average looking person, you have 50 years of experience in being average looking. Since your interactions and worldview were never coloured by your looks, life would presumably be smooth sailing.

So if you're a youngster reading this — if you're struggling with your insecurities related to your looks, I would request you to be kind to yourself. The others might get the immediate advantages of a romantic partner, or favour at work. Today, it might seem like life is a difficult journey — seemingly cruel where you stand today.

But you're in for the long haul. When we all turn old and wrinkly, you won't be heartbroken. Your friends will be true, the people who love you won't do it for shallow reasons. Real joy comes from nurturing relationships that do not depend on the exteriors. Contrary to what they say, a thing of beauty is not a joy forever. Good luck!

TAMANNAAH BHATIA LAUNCHES BOOK ON INDIAN WELLNESS

Actress Tamannaah Bhatia launched her book Back to the Roots, which she has co-authored with celebrity lifestyle coach Luke Coutinho. The actress hopes that the readers enjoy the book which is based on intensive research and unearths India's ancient secrets of health and wellness. Speaking about the launch of Back to the Roots, new author Tamannaah said, "India is a library full of age-old knowledge on healthy living. It's about time that we revisited our traditional ways of wellness and put this knowledge to use. All the chapters in Back to the Roots are complete with tried-and-tested secrets that have served generations of this country." The Baahubali actress added, "I have enjoyed the journey of delving deep into ancient Indian wisdom with Luke Coutinho. As we launch this book today, it's leaving me with a sense of fulfillment as we serve our purpose of documenting and passing the baton of this ancestral knowledge. I hope our readers enjoy the book as much as we enjoyed the process of putting it together for them." — IANS

PUBLICATION WINS SIX-WAY AUCTION TO BRING OUT SOCIAL SCIENTIST NALIN MEHTA'S BOOK

Westland Publications has acquired a new book by journalist and social scientist Nalin Mehta titled The New BJP: Modi and the Making of the World's Largest Political Party. It was acquired after a fiercely contested auction featuring the top six publishing houses in India. It will publish under the Westland Non-Fiction imprint in October 2021. An explosive, revisionist history, The New BJP examines how the BJP became the world's largest political party under Narendra Modi.

The book is based on a specially-created digital archive uncovering startling insights. Artificial Intelligence has helped find patterns in the data that would otherwise be missed by the human eye. Commenting about the deal, Mehta said, "In a deeply polarised polity where TV news channels only shout to the converted on either side and where social media is deeply split into echo-chambers, I have deliberately chosen in this book to keep aside personal value judgments. This is not a book about whether what the BJP stands for is right or wrong for India; or whether Hindu nationalism, as opposed to Hindu traditionalism, in a Hindu-majority democracy is good or bad. It is about why the BJP won, or did better than earlier, in more elections than it lost, or performed poorly in, since 2014."

SOHA ALI KHAN, KUNAL KEMMU PEN FIRST CHILDREN'S BOOK SERIES TOGETHER

Penguin Random House India is to publish a series of three picture books from actor duo, partners and parents Soha Ali Khan and Kunal Kemmu, tentatively titled Inni and Bobo. The first book is to be released in 2022. Soha debuted as an author in 2017 with The Perils of Being Moderately Famous, a best-selling memoir published as a collection of essays by Penguin. This is the first time she is writing for young readers. This book also marks Kunal's debut as an author. The three picture books will take readers through the adventures of a little girl called Inni, who loves all animals, especially cute little puppies. Talking about the inspiration behind the book, Soha and Kunal recounted, "One of Inaaya's favourite things to do is story time — either she'll bring a book to one of us and ask us to read it to her whilst she looks at the pictures, or then as she says 'from your mouth' where she chooses the characters and the setting and we make up the story for her." — IANS

Supriya Pathak Kapur

Scripting of a dramedy

With a thrilling climax, this audio show starring Supriya Pathak Kapur, Sayani Gupta and Rithwik Dhanjani, is a tale with a twist

EXPRESS FEATURES

CULTURAL miscommunications, family secrets, and the lingering echoes of trauma... all of these elements make for a perfect drama-thriller. Audible, the provider of original spoken-word entertainment and audio books, has launched its newest title Buri Nazar, an Audible Original thriller, starring Supriya Pathak Kapur, Sayani Gupta, and Rithvik Dhanjani.

Usha (Supriya Pathak Kapur) is convinced that the evil eye, a curse that brings continuous misfortune, was cast upon her daughter, Pallavi (Sayani Gupta), in the womb. What else could have possibly left her driven, career-oriented daughter edging closer to 30 without a prospective husband? Determined to set Pallavi on the right path, Usha arranges date after date with potential suitors, but fails. In an unexpected turn of events, Pallavi becomes her own matchmaker when she meets and quickly falls for Sandeep (Rithvik Dhanjani), a young Indian-American entrepreneur. And though she expects her mother, Pallavi is distraught and confused to find her mother growing increasingly suspicious of Sandeep's motives and true identity.

Told through a series of phone calls and voicemails, this story penned by award-winning playwright Madhuri Shekar, and adapted into Hindi by Noopur Sinha, transitions seamlessly from a light-hearted family dramedy to an unexpectedly supernatural thriller. With a cast of well-rounded characters, sharp, natural dialogue, and a shocking edge-of-your-seat climax, Buri Nazar is a tale with a twist.

Talking about her experience of narrating an audio show for the first time, Kapur said, "Playing the role of Usha and emoting the complex feelings of a loving but worried mother who just wants to protect her child using only my voice was an exciting challenge that I have thoroughly enjoyed."

Gupta, who has essayed the lead role of Pallavi in the audio show, said, "Growing up listening to radio plays, and my father being part of the All India Radio, I have always been attracted to and intrigued by voice work. I enjoy doing it tremendously. It's amazing to learn the range of emotions you can portray and tell a story with its nuance using just your voice, which is very powerful."

Further, she said, "Audio storytelling is a craft in itself, and the scope is fascinating. I have thoroughly enjoyed playing Pallavi and loved the banter with my mother and the romance with the boyfriend. Buri Nazar is an extremely unpredictable story that I know will have our listeners at the edge of their seats."

It's been a great exprience for Dhanjani who says, "Playing this multi-faceted character using only the power of my voice has been incredible."

DHRUWAN'S DEBUT
BHAGWAN SHRI KRISHNA PARAMATMA GOES ON FLOORS

The film, directed by Anup Antony, stars Sonal Monteiro in the female lead; the project completes 1st schedule in Bengaluru

A SHARADHAA

ACTOR Dhruwan, who is set to make his debut with Bhagawan Shri Krishna Paramatma, has completed the first schedule of the film in Bengaluru. The actor, who has previously worked as an assistant director in films like Airavata and Tarak, was waiting to begin his acting career and his dream was finally realised with this project. "We completed 10 days of shooting, and it has been a good experience so far," says Dhruwan. This will be the third directorial of Anup Antony, who has previously wielded the megaphone for Kathah Vichitrah and Mehabooba

Backed by Bharath Cine Creations, Bhagawan Shri Krishna Paramatma stars Roberrt-fame Sonal Monteiro in the film. Sharing few stills from the film, Anup also revealed that Shobaraj, Yash Shetty, Yashas Surya, Suraj of Comedy Khiladigalu fame, Swathi, and Balrajwadi will be seen in prominent roles. "We just completed the family portions. Our next schedule will be in Mysuru," says Anup, who has come up with a mass action subject this time. "The story of Bhagawan Shri Krishna Paramatma is set in a local area and revolves around a graduate, played by Dhruwan. Sonal plays a college student," he tells us.

James director Chethan Kumar has written the dialogues for the film, which will have Arjun Janya scoring the music. The cinematography and editing will be handled by Arun Suresh and Manu Gowda, respectively.

DEEPIKA PADUKONE TO STAR IN AN INTERNATIONAL CROSS-CULTURAL ROMANTIC COMEDY

CE FEATURES

Deepika Padukone will star in an upcoming international cross-cultural romantic comedy. The as-yet-untitled film is developed by STXfilms and Deepika's own Ka Productions. It marks her second international venture after XXX: The Return of Xander Cage (2017).

"Ka Productions was founded with the aim to develop and produce purposeful content with global appeal," Deepika said in a statement.

"I'm thrilled to be partnering with STXfilms and Temple Hill Productions, who share Ka's ambition and creative vision and look forward to bringing impactful and dynamic cross-cultural stories to the world."

Adam Fogelson, the chairman of STXfilms Motion Picture Group, said, "There is a reason Deepika is one of the biggest global stars to come from India. She is enormously talented with an infectious personality and her profile continues to grow as an international superstar. While she has been a phenomenal success in many Eros International films, we are thrilled to be building a romantic comedy with her and our friends at Temple Hill. We believe this project gives us the opportunity to tap into the spirit, voice, characters and vibrant settings of India and New York in ways that made Crazy Rich Asians feel so authentic and fresh."

Deepika's last release was Chhapaak in 2020. She is presently working on Pathan co-starring Shah Rukh Khan. Her other upcoming releases including 83, Shakun Batra's next, and a Nag Ashwin collab.

Malik director Mahesh Narayanan to make Hindi debut with Phantom Hospital

CE FEATURES

Malik director Mahesh Narayanan will make his Hindi debut with a thriller titled Phantom Hospital. The film will be produced by Priti Shahani in collaboration with journalist and author Josy Joseph.

Phantom Hospital is based on 'an unprecedented investigation into the Indian healthcare system', the makers stated. The film is written by Akash Mohimen and Mahesh Narayanan.

Speaking about his Hindi debut, Mahesh shared, "I was instantly drawn to the story inspired from true incidents in the Healthcare sector of India. It gives me immense pleasure to associate with Priti Shahani, who as a producer, has consistently delivered quality content, and Josy Joseph, whose meticulous research has added great layers to the story. My films have received so much love from the Hindi audiences that I am truly looking forward to directing my first Hindi Feature."

Priti Shahani has backed critically acclaimed films like Talvar, Raazi, and Badhaai Ho. She has launched her new production house, Tusk Tale Films. "At Tusk Tale Films, it is our endeavour to champion stories that are reflective of our times that are rich with emotions and have the ability to resonate with all," Priti said. "I am excited to partner with Mahesh Narayanan, whose stories have traveled to a nationwide audience and is truly a visionary films maker and India's finest Investigative journalist Josy Joseph. Together we aim to make an entertaining film that uncovers one of the most shocking scandals in our country."

Josy Joseph, the founder of Confluence Media, said, "The strange thing about India is that its real stories are far more dramatic than any that a writer can imagine up, but those have not been harnessed enough for visual storytelling. I am confident that Phantom Hospital will be a pathbreaking movie that will showcase Mahesh's mastery over the craft and Priti's capability to see through challenging projects."

Free Guy to release in India on Sept 17

CE FEATURES

Ryan Reynolds-starrer Free Guy, which opened in the US and other countries earlier this month, is set to release in India on September 17, the film's distributor 20th Century Studios announced. The Shawn Levy directorial also features Jodie Comer, Lil Rel Howery, Utkarsh Ambudkar, Joe Keery, and Taika Waititi.

The film follows a bank teller, played by Reynolds, who discovers he is actually a background player in an open-world video game, and quickly decides to become the hero of his own story. Reynolds recently announced that a sequel has been greenlit for the action-comedy.

Taapsee Pannu

IT'S A WRAP FOR TAAPSEE PANNU'S PSYCHOLOGICAL THRILLER BLURR

CE FEATURES

The shoot of Taapsee Pannu's debut production, Blurr, has wrapped up in Nainital. Directed by Ajay Bahl and starring Taapsee and Gulshan Devaiah, the psychological thriller follows a girl caught up in unavoidable circumstances. The film is co-written by Ajay and Pawan Sony.

Blurr is the first offering from Taapsee's Outsider Films. It is co-produced by Zee Studios and Echelon Productions. Talking about filming in Nainital, director Ajay Bahl says, "Shooting at real locations like Nainital Lake, Mall Road, and other tourist spots can be difficult especially with the overcrowding. We would shoot late at night right into the wee hours of the morning. But it was a completely gratifying experience for all of us. Nainital made for the ideal spot bringing equal parts beauty and mystery to the film." Blurr is scheduled to release in 2022.

Diane Kruger

Diane Kruger to star in Out of the Blue

CE FEATURES

Actor Diane Kruger is all set to star opposite Ray Nicholson in the upcoming indie thriller Out of the Blue.

Set to be directed by Neil LaBute (The Wicker Man, In the Company of Men), the film is touted as a contemporary tale of passionate love, deceit, and the perfect murder. The story follows Connor (Nicholson), a man whose dull life is transformed into a thrilling fantasy world thanks to the seductive Marilyn (Kruger).

As the logline goes, "He plunges headlong into the adulterous affair; the ex-con with a heart of gold seemingly destined for the raven-haired trophy wife. The only hitch in their idyllic new life together? Marilyn's trapped in a nightmare with an abusive husband and vulnerable stepdaughter. Desperate and with a history of violence, Connor will do almost anything to see him dead."
